ROYAL OBSEQUIES.

Fear of Influenza Changes the Plan of the Duke's Funeral.

PRINCE GEORGE NOT PERMITTED TO ATTEND THE CEREMONY.

London's Plague Is Epidemic—O'Brien Wants to Arbitrate With Redmond—Fears of a Revolution in Argentine—San Salvador in a Turmoil—An Obnoxious Bill.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The arrangements that were made for a public and semi-military procession through London to escort the remains of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale from the Great Eastern to the Southwestern Railway Station has been changed in consequence of the general epidemic of influenza prevailing here. When the order was issued by the high military authorities preparations were immediately made to carry them into effect, but representations were made to the Prince of Wales that owing to the inclement weather, which gives promise of lasting over Wednesday, it would be dangerous to the health of the troops who took part in the ceremonies. It was pointed out that the guards who were ordered to line the route from the Liverpool street station of the Great Eastern Railway to the station of the Southwestern Railway would have to stand immovable for a long time, and that they would thus be peculiarly liable to become chilled through, and otherwise endanger their health. Upon hearing the views of the authorities, who made no concealment of their fears that the exposure would probably result in a general attack of influenza, the Prince of Wales immediately gave orders that the projected military funeral be abandoned.

The Prince of Wales, with the example of the results of exposure during the present inclement weather before him, as evidenced by the death of his son, is showing the greatest solicitude that the members of the court should not be exposed to the unnecessary risk which a procession through London would entail and which would be certain to seriously affect the health of many of the aged courtiers.

The Duke of Cambridge was upon the point of leaving Cannes to return to London to attend the funeral of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, when he received a telegram from the Prince of Wales requesting him not to leave, as the Prince did not wish him to run the risk that would be entailed by the change of climate.

It is deemed that the health of Prince George of Wales is not sufficiently robust to allow of his exposing himself in any way and the Prince of Wales has decided that he will not be allowed to attend his brother's funeral.

SOUTHERN REPUBLICS.

FEARS OF A REVOLUTION IN ARGENTINE—OFFICIAL PECULATION.

MENDOZA, Argentine Republic, Jan. 18.—The President of the Legislature of the State of Mendoza has requested the chief of police to arm a sufficient number of men for the protection of the Legislature from assault by revolutionists. The Governor has also called upon the federal government of Argetina to guard the polls during the approaching election for governor of that state. All Argentina, in fact, seems to be in a ferment over the elections, and revolution appears to be almost inevitable.

FRAUDS HINTED AT.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 18.—Great frauds have been discovered in purchases of materials for public works. It is hinted that President Pellegrini is alleged to have been involved in the frauds.

FROM CENTRAL AMERICA.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 18.—The appointment of Poirreir, whom Chilian Minister to Mexico under Balmaceda, as private secretary to President Ezeta of San Salvador, is causing dissatisfaction in Mexico, both because Poirreir is a foreigner and because he is known to have been an advisor of Balmaceda. The final difficulties of the Salvadorian government are increasing. The election of Lazinfiesta to the presidency of Guatemala strengthens the probabilities of the continuance of peace in Central America.

Electoral excitement is running high in Costa Rica, but a revolution is improbable, as the financial condition of that Republic is too good.

Advices from Teguragapala are that the President of Honduras is in trouble, owing to the fact that there is considerable opposition to the recent concessions.

IRISH AFFAIRS.

WM. O'BRIEN WANTS TO ARBITRATE WITH JOHN REDMOND.

DUBLIN, Jan. 18.—Mr. Wm. O'Brien, M. P., the McCarthyite leader, has written a letter denouncing Mr. John Redmond, recently elected to Parliament from Waterford in the Parnellite interest, for his wholesale abuse of himself (Mr. O'Brien), and of his political associates. Mr. O'Brien suggests that the whole question of Mr. Redmond's and his own relations with the late Mr. Parnell should be submitted to arbitration, with the understanding that whom the decision adversely affects, shall retire from public life.

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED.

Near Newgrove, County Clare, to-day four men, whose features were disfigured by masks, stopped a car in which Mr. Charles Perry was riding. After shooting and killing the horse which was drawing the vehicle, his assailants fired at Mr. Perry, wounding him in both thighs. The wounded gentleman was then pulled from the car and his clothes closely searched. A number of papers were secured by the masked men, who thereupon hastily decamped. Mr. Perry, who is in a critical condition as a consequence of his injuries, had twice previously been fired upon, but on both these occasions escaped uninjured. No arrests have yet been made.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

AN OBNOXIOUS BILL INTRODUCED IN THE FRENCH CHAMBER.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—A bill introduced in the French Chamber of Deputies empowers the Government to dissolve any association having a majority of foreign members or a foreigner among its directors. This provision is aimed at religious orders, but it injures literary, scientific and charitable societies also, as they will be compelled to exclude foreigners. The penalty for neglecting to comply with the law is two years' imprisonment.

NEWFOUNDLAND WARNED.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—With reference to Newfoundland's desiring to proceed with the negotiation of the bond treaty with the United States, the Times urges Newfoundland to make friends with Canada and to negotiate a treaty on a wider basis with Canada and the United States which shall include all of the privileges which Newfoundland desires. When the Washington Government, adds the Times, has distinctly declined to entertain the proposal it will be time to discuss what shall be done next.

FERDINAND CONGRATULATED.

SOFIA, Jan. 18.—The diplomatic representatives in this city of the foreign powers to-day on the occasion of the opening of the New Year's ceremonies attended the official reception of Prince Ferdinand and, for the first time since his accession to the throne of Bulgaria, tendered him their congratulations.

SAILORS PROSTRATED.

MALTA, Jan. 18.—Two hundred sailors and many officers of the British Mediterranean fleet are in the hospital here prostrated with influenza. There are 250 additional cases of the disease scattered among the various vessels of the fleet.

BRIEF MENTION.

Mr. Watts, Secretary of the Social Democratic Federation of England has been arrested for open-air lecturing in Chelsea. A crowd tried to rescue him.

Empress Frederick yesterday attended service at St. George's, the English church. The Rev. Mr. Eyre, an American clergyman, occupied the pulpit. He referred feelingly to the death of the Duke of Clarence.

Another director and the cashier of the Banco Lusitano have been arrested.

Influenza is steadily declining in Sweden.

The police of Warsaw surprised an anarchist meeting in that city yesterday. In a scuffle between the police and the anarchists two of the latter were killed. Fifteen were arrested and the rest escaped.

UNDESIRABLE IMMIGRANTS.

Labor Unions Oppose the Work of a Colonization Society.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 18.—Some time ago the Illinois Russian Colonization Society was incorporated with headquarters in this city. The society asserts its object in the assistance of worthy Russian immigrants to find a home upon farm lands purchased by the association, and the names of Senator John M. Palmer, ex-Gov. Oglesby and other prominent citizens appeared on the list of incorporators, although these gentlemen have no active connection with the association. The work of soliciting subscriptions to the stock is in the hands of a committee headed by Rabbi Rubenstein, a prominent Hebrew of this city, and the work has been vigorously pushed. However some of the labor organizations of the city aver that the association is a menace to their interests, and that it proposes to bring into the country a class of immigrants who will compete with them in their several fields, or in other words that it is a cover for the importation of cheap labor. They are agitating the matter and will discuss it in their unions, and just now the prospect is that a fight will be made against the colonization society on this ground.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT AGAINST IT.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 18.—About 400 Jews have arrived here within the last few weeks. They expect to find employment in local mills. At least 600 more will arrive next month. The fact that most of them are poor and without knowledge of the customs of the country has given rise to a general public sentiment against welcoming their wholesale immigration here.

IN BEHALF OF GRAVES.

Startling Disclosures Promised by His Friends in Denver.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 18.—The friends of Dr. Graves claim startling disclosures will be given the public shortly. Detective Keith and three operatives have been diligently striving to determine who sent the bottle of whisky on the theory that it contained pure liquor when mailed, and that the stuff was doctored in Denver.

It is held that an affidavit has been signed by several persons who were in Herb Hoothery's saloon on Seventeenth street, between Stout and Campa streets, a few nights ago when one of the witnesses against Graves, being intoxicated, talked freely. He spoke of his acquaintance with all parties in the case, and as the minutes sped his volubility increased. He had plenty of listeners, for the topic was uppermost in the public mind, and every word was eagerly noted. He did not appear to be under the influence of his potations became more apparent he grew bolder in his assertions until he startled his audience with the statement that he himself had bought the whisky and mailed it to the Denver address. The story has created a great sensation here, and although doubted by some, is claimed to be correct by people who were in the saloon. The affidavits have not yet been made public. A couple of letters are expected to-day from Montana which the defense claims will corroborate the statement of Mrs. Larimer that bad feelings existed between Mrs. Barnaby and the Worrels, and several more are also sleuthing for criminating evidence.

A WORK-HOUSE DEATH.

Thomas Meyer Alleged to Have Died of Cold and Exposure—Police News.

On Saturday Thomas Meyer, alias Miller, a prisoner in the Work-house, died in his shackles from what the Work-house physician, Dr. Lewis, says was congestion of the liver. This may have been the direct cause of his demise, but from all that can be learned from the officials it was assisted materially by cold, exposure and hunger.

The certificates of death have not yet been signed and approved at the Health office, and a delay of such length in the case of a pauper or criminal is unusual unless there to some suspicious causes accompanying it. The papers in this case are being kept a part from the rest, and a desire is evinced to keep the case quiet.

The circumstances of the unfortunate wretch's death, as far as could be learned without visiting the Work-house, are, that on last Thursday, which was a very cold day, Meyers was sent out with a gang to work on the streets. He was clad like the rest in a suit of Work-house clothes and whatever else he might beg or buy, with no gloves and an old hat. He, like the rest, went to work on the usual Work-house breakfast of coffee and dry bread and was compelled to get along on that until 3 o'clock in the afternoon as no dinner was brought out to them at noon and it was too far to take the gang to the Work-house and then back in time to get any work done in the afternoon. The next day Meyers was taken very sick and was treated with scant attention until it was found that he was in a really serious condition.

Where Is Joseph Hart?

Mrs. Hart of 421 North Thirteenth street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes a very touching letter to Chief Harrigan, in which she asks him to find her son Joseph, whom she has not heard from in two years. He is 22 years of age and left home five years ago. She heard from him frequently at 1910 Market street, this city, for three years, but she had received no answer to five letters written to him at that number during the past two years. He was laying curb stone for the city the last time she heard from him. A police officer called at the number yesterday and learned that Joseph Hart had lived there but left about four months ago, saying he was going to work at the Chain of Rocks on the new water-works. An officer has been sent to find him. The mother says she is rapidly failing in health and wishes to see her son once more before she dies.

Mr. Cleveland Goes Hunting.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 18.—Ex-President Cleveland passed through this city last night on his way to join Joe Jefferson in a hunting and fishing expedition. Mr. Cleveland was bound for the comedian's plantation in Louisiana.

JACK THE SLASHER.

New York's Knife Fiend Caught at His Work.

ARRAIGNED IN THE TOMBS POLICE COURT THIS MORNING.

The Knifer's Brother Also Arrested and Held—Both Have Been Inmates of Insane Asylums—A Farmer's Wife Murdered—Wholesale Horsethieving—A Child Forcibly Abducted—Other Crimes

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Henry G. Dowd, alias "Jack the Slasher," was arraigned in the Tombs Police Court this morning before Justice Duffy, charged with cutting the throat of Wm. Muller, in front of 90 James street, early yesterday morning. Dowd in answer to the charge pleaded self-defense, saying Muller had pushed against him and he cut him. He explained having the razor in his possession by saying that he had shaved himself on Saturday night and inadvertently put the razor in his pocket—he denied having cut other men besides Muller, saying "This is the only man I ever came in contact with." Justice Duffy then held him without bail for examination Thursday. All throughout the proceedings Dowd maintained a stolid indifference. He says he is 38 years of age, and that he was born in Liverpool.

John Dowd, the brother of the alleged "Slasher," was also arraigned in the Tombs Police Court this morning. He said that he called every day at the room of his brother, and that twenty years ago his brother Henry had been committed to the Flatbush Asylum, but had not been kept there long. He had also been in the Ridgewater Asylum and on the Island for the same cause. He knew his brother was a "little off" at times. John Dowd acknowledged that he was distracted by religious matters and was proud of it. Justice Duffy committed him to the care of the Commissioner of Charities and Correction.

Dowd was arrested here yesterday morning. He is thought to be the person who has cut a number of drunken men lately, and who killed Lawyer John Carson of Baltimore last Friday. Seven men in all had been cut since Dec. 29. The police have been vigilantly watching for the mysterious assassin and part of the city in the vicinity where the cuttings were done patrolled by numbers of police in citizens' clothes and detectives. About 3 o'clock yesterday morning Policeman Wm. H. Masterson of the Oak street Station was standing at the corner of New Bowery and New Chambers street, when he noticed a man on the opposite side of the street slouching along. Presently a man, who was very drunk, came in sight on Roosevelt street. The man whom the policeman had first noticed immediately afterwards followed him at a little faster gait. They turned into New Bowery and then went down Madison street. They came back again to New Chambers street and down New Chambers to Oak and through Oak to New Bowery again, and then back again to the corner of Oak and Roosevelt, the policeman following at a safe distance. The drunken man stood at the curb at New Chambers and Oak for a minute, when the man who had been following him approached and said something to him. The two then started back through Oak street towards James and passed down James street. When about opposite No. 96 the man who had joined the drunken man threw his arm around the drunken man's neck and, whipping his right hand out of his overcoat pocket, drew it across the drunken man's face and neck two or three times. The drunken man fell without a word and his assailant darted across the street. The policeman sprang forward and after a glance in the face of the drunken man drew a pistol from his pocket and discharged it in the air. He then started in pursuit of the man who did the cutting, for the drunken man had been dangerously cut. A number of police officers responded from as many points in answer to the policeman's shot and soon a number of detectives and police were in pursuit. The fleeing stranger was caught at New Chambers and James streets and taken to the Oak Street Station. The drunken man's name is William Miller. The prisoner, it is stated, acted confessed to cutting the man and then denied it. Later it is stated he confessed to Inspector Byrnes that he had cut the men and killed Carson, his purpose being he, it is said, stated, to kill Germans, as a man of that nationality he said had once assaulted his mother. He was confined in an insane asylum some years ago and Inspector Byrnes has possession of his opinion that he is still insane. Dowd was identified by Clarke, one of the men who was cut, who is slowly recovering at the hospital.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

POPLAR BLUFF'S CRIMINAL COURT DEALING WITH ANOTHER TRAGEDY.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Jan. 18.—Butler County Circuit Court, in criminal session, adjourned Thursday evening on account of the execution of Dr. Harben, was again called this morning and proceeded to take testimony in the case of State vs. Dave Wollard, charged with the killing of one Yarbrough, an old farmer who was reported to have fabulous sums of gold secreted in his house. It appears that the old man was shot down in the field where he was plowing and carried to the house to force him to reveal the treasure, as it is proved that he was shot at work, but his body was found in the house. Wollard was one of the number who escaped from jail last fall and stole a Winchester, but was neatly trapped by a young man who pretended to be hunting, and exchanged an empty gun for his loaded one. The testimony taken to-day is against Wollard, but the most damaging is to come yet, and the chances are that there will be another hanging for Sheriff Gardner before his term expires next January.

AN INCENDIARY ATTEMPT.

EIGHTEEN GAS JETS TURNED ON IN A CHICAGO TAILOR SHOP.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18.—While Officer Thomas of the Twenty-second Street station was passing Charles Meyers' tailor shop at 3027 State street last night, he noticed a strong odor of gas. He was convinced that all was not right inside. Accordingly he forced open the door and was almost overcome by the escaping fluid. He found that eighteen jets had been left open and gas was pouring out steadily. On the floor was a lighted lantern and the indications were that a plot had been laid to burn the building similar to the one which was discovered and thwarted in Max Alexander's shoe store on State street. The building is a three-story frame, on the upper floors of which live Charles McDonald and wife, Milton Misner, wife and two children and a Miss Murphy. The odor of the gas was so strong in the third story that the tenants could not retire. There seems to be no doubt that there was a deliberate plot to destroy the building. A big fire was burning in the stove, which was red-hot, and in a few minutes it is probable an explosion would have occurred.

A CHILD ABDUCTED.

DRAYTON, Ontario, Jan. 18.—A great sensation was created here by the abduction Saturday night of Jane Smith, a girl of 11, the adopted daughter of Louis Newton. Two men, who are supposed to be John A. Gardner, agent of the Bell Organ Co., Toronto, and an employe of that firm, arrived here Saturday night and while one man stopped at the Royal Hotel and engaged a horse and cutter the other proceeded to the residence of Mr. Newton, where he saw the little girl, and by some means got her to accompany him to the sidewalk, where the cutter was in readiness. She was placed in the cutter and they all drove away in the direction of Guelph, where it is supposed they took the midnight train for Toronto.

A MINISTER ARRESTED.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Jan. 18.—Richard Haskell, pastor of the Cherry Hill Colored Baptist Church at Linwood, was arrested there and brought to this place, charged with being an accessary in the recent riots at Linwood. He preached incendiary sermons just before the riots occurred. It is now thought that J. E. Connors, who has pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property, was one of the leaders in the riots. The attempted assassination of Chas. McNally and the recent burning of a car of cotton are now being charged against the Linwood rioters. The excitement is great.

WHOLESALE HORSE-THIEVING.

CORSICANA, Tex., Jan. 18.—Deputy Sheriff Cabley returned from Alabama yesterday with J. C. McQueen, who has been indicted for horse-stealing. McQueen kept a store at Purdon in this county and shipped a large number of horses and mules from Wortham, Tex., which are said to have been stolen. The band of horse-thieves is now believed to have been broken up, as four of the men had been arrested before McQueen was indicted.

HER THROAT CUT.

LOCKHAVEN, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The body of Mrs. McKeague, a farmer's wife, was found dead in bed in Crawford Township Saturday with her head almost cut off and a razor lying on the floor. She had evidently been murdered.

SUICIDES.

Hintz Turned on the Gas—A Murderer's Remorse.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Arthur B. Hintz of Hoboken, 25 years old, registered at Smith & McNeil's hotel, Saturday afternoon, as James W. White, Easton, Pa., and was given room 374, on the top floor. He retired and was not disturbed until 8:30 yesterday morning, when the watchman broke open the door at the sound of groans from within. He was almost overcome by the gas in the room. Hintz lay on the bed naked and unconscious. He had made a desperate attempt to commit suicide. One end of a rubber tube was fastened to a gas jet; the other end was securely held by means of wire in Hintz's mouth. Strips of paper were pasted on the bottoms of the doors and no gas was permitted to escape. He was taken to the Chambers Street Hospital and is now in a fair way to recover. He left in the room an unsigned note of farewell to "Papa, Mamie, Henry and the Baby," and stated in the note that his address in the care of H. C. Hintz, 146 Madison street, Hoboken, N. J. Henry Hintz, the brother, came over to this city. He said his brother was a salesman, out of work, whose bride of a year died a few months ago, and left him a baby to care for. Despondency followed.

A MURDERER'S REMORSE.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 18.—Thomas Quinn, who shot and killed Mrs. Annie Schneider last Saturday, tried to hang himself yesterday morning in a cell at police headquarters, where he is held pending the inquest. Deskman Mark Shipman heard a gurgling noise and hastened to Quinn's cell. Quinn had knotted his suspenders together and made a noose at one end, which he fastened about his neck. The other end he tied to the top of the cell door and was slowly strangling to death. He was cut down and put under a close watch. He does not know that his victim is dead and he will not be told until the inquest. Coroner Hatfield empaneled a jury Saturday night, and dismissed them till Thursday.

ON THE ICE.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18.—A man found the naked body of a woman near the lake shore at Ohio street yesterday morning. The corpse lay upon a heap of fine clothing. She appeared to be 40 years old, but wasted down to a skeleton. Among the clothing a handbag was found, which had several cards labeled: "Mary Simpson, fashionable dressmaker, 68 South Elizabeth street." This proved to be the woman's name. She has been demented, and the police believe that she went along the shore, ran out on the ice, and removing her clothing, lay down to die.

INSANE FROM GRIP.

PALMER, Mass., Jan. 18.—In their house last night, on the lonely road to Ware, Herbert C. Gath, the 32-year-old son of Josiah Gath, became insane while suffering from the grip, and after struggling for an hour with his mother for the possession of a shotgun, secured the weapon and, rushing out into the yard, shot himself. The father was lying dangerously ill and the distracted woman blew a horn and shouted in vain for assistance. The son died shortly afterward.

NEWS BY MIRAGE.

Mulhatton Now Located in the North Blizzard Zone.

LEWISTON, Mont., Jan. 18.—A wonderful mirage was distinctly visible, near this city, yesterday afternoon. The mirage has caused considerable alarm, however, because it is feared that the Indians may have started on the war path and encountered a party of hunters. Through the vistas, during the afternoon, the hunters and the red men could be seen repeatedly to charge and retreat. The Indians were apparently well supplied with ammunition, and by superior numbers they finally succeeded in capturing a party of a dozen hunters. Those who witnessed the wonderful scenic effect produced by the mirage assert that they could distinctly see the savages build piles of faggots and burn their captives at the stake. Midwinter mirages in the clear, crisp atmosphere of the Yellowstone are rare, and phenomena of this character are usually a reproduction of real events or real sections of the country, so far as could be ascertained last night. The Indians on the reservations are peaceable.

A MYSTERY CLEARED UP.

Henry M. Griswold's Grave Found After His Long Disappearance.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 18.—About six years ago Henry M. Griswold, the son of a wealthy man of this place, mysteriously disappeared and until recently his whereabouts were never known to his friends. Shortly after he left here his father died, leaving him a fourth of his large estate. Efforts were made to find the missing heir, but they all proved fruitless. Recently Griswold's uncle and brother learned of a clew that took them to Lamley, S. C., where they found that the body of the missing man had lain in an obscure grave for five years. The body was disinterred and identified by relatives and shipped to this city. The clearing up of this mystery will enable the proper distribution of the estate of the elder Griswold, the value of which is about $60,000.

FIGHTING A TRUST.

Wholesale Liquor Dealers Organize for Protection.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 18.—A meeting of wholesale liquor dealers of this and other cities representing the snug sum of $6,000,000 was held at the Continental Hotel last week for the purpose of organizing an association for their own protection against the encroachments of the whisky trust which for fifteen years has been stretching out its influence all over the land in its particular line of business. They perfected their organization by the election of Elias Gallagher as president, J. S. Perrine, treasurer, and a full board of directors. The new association announces its determination to free its members from the exaction of what they term the whisky trust, the distillers' and cattle feeders' company which controls the outputs of the principal distilleries of the country.

MONTT'S DILEMMA.

Chili's President Dare Not Apologize to the United States.

HE WANTS PEACE, BUT FEARS ANOTHER REVOLUTION.

The Temper of the Chilian People Precludes an Immediate Compliance With Harrison's Demand—Further Delay Urged—Signs of Coming War at the Navy Department—The Controversy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—Senor Montt has within the past week received several confidential messages from the President of Chili, in which the political complications that have arisen since the inauguration of the new government have been set forth at some length and the Minister was urged to use every legitimate means to induce the United States to withhold the ultimatum which President Harrison is said to have been preparing. President Montt's government was elected to supersede the Junta. The rule of the provisional government, though lacking in many qualities of statesmanship, was nevertheless immensely popular. The congressional party had withdrawn from the capital of the nation, and with nothing but such resources as the nitrate beds in Northern Chili afforded had conducted a successful military and naval campaign, which ended in the complete route of the Balmacedists. Elated by their success, the Congressionalists felt that Chili was able to cope with almost any enemy she might encounter. Senor Matta, until lately Minister of Foreign Affairs, penned the bellicose reply to President Harrison's diplomatic note asking reparation for the assault upon the sailors of the Baltimore. This was the first of a series of ill-considered acts which have brought about the present strained relations between the two Governments. Its tone was applauded in Chili and the popularity of the Junta was augmented by the very indiscreet act of its hot-headed Foreign Minister. Senor Pereira, who succeeded Senor Matta, is much more conservative and is in hearty sympathy with President Montt in his desire to bring about a peaceful termination of the controversy. He is hampered, however, by the knowledge that his predecessor had the support of the Chilian people in his aggressive course, and the fear that any act repudiating Senor Matta's performances will be a signal for a general demonstration of disapproval that might result in the breaking up of the new Cabinet, if not a revolution.

The President of Chili has pointed out the necessity of acquainting Secretary Blaine of the facts in some unofficial way which will neither commit the Chilian Government or abate any of its dignity. Minister Montt has very diplomatically made these matters clear to Secretary Blaine and it is largely to this account that the Secretary has used all the influence at his command to induce the President to withhold his message to Congress suggesting an ultimatum until such a time as Chili can make a reply satisfactory to the United States without endangering the tenure of the present Chilian Government. Senor Montt has not contented himself with laying these facts before Secretary Blaine. He has imparted them to various public men with whom he has conversed on the subject, and it is likely that President Harrison will find that a thorough understanding of the situation is already enjoyed by many members when his message reaches the House.

OVERHAULING MONITORS.

GETTING THE MONTAUK, NAHANT AND JASON READY FOR SEA.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 18.—The work of pumping out the great dry-dock recently built at the League Island Navy Yard, preparatory to an examination of the bottom of the monitor Montauk, was begun this morning. This will consume two or three days. All day Saturday telegrams were passing between League Island and Washington, and as a result to-day a force of men sufficient to equip the vessel for sea in less than three weeks was put to work. This will require, in addition to the force of mechanics already employed, fourteen machinists, boilermakers and coppersmiths.

Six months ago the monitors Nahant and Jason, were dry-docked and their bottoms scraped.

The orders from the Navy Department require that the Montauk's engines be tried after she has been thoroughly overhauled. Capt. Coughlin, the Acting Commandant at League Island, says the monitor could be equipped for sea in a week if necessary. In an interview here, he said: "The Montauk has not been out of the water for eighteen years, and she is a vessel with only her engines and guns aboard. That is to say, she is dismantled, as there was no occasion during a long period of idleness to have her equipped. She is preserved as well as it is possible for any boat to be. In order to preserve the engines it is necessary to separate many of the parts, and it is almost like building a new engine to put them together. It is the clear, crisp atmosphere of the Nevadas are rare, and phenomena of this character are usually a reproduction of real events or real sections of the country, so far as could be ascertained last night. The Indians on the reservations are peaceable.

FIGHTING A TRUST.

Wholesale Liquor Dealers Organize for Protection.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 18.—A meeting of wholesale liquor dealers of this and other cities representing the snug sum of $6,000,000 was held at the Continental Hotel last week for the purpose of organizing an association for their own protection against the encroachments of the whisky trust which for fifteen years has been stretching out its influence all over the land in its particular line of business. with closed doors, their desks covered by the large flat code book, for which a foreign enemy would give the price of a man-of-war. A artist of half a dozen cablegrams will constitute nearly a day's work, and so all the available force of the bureau is put upon the task. Meanwhile Commodore Ramsey devotes considerable time in communication with the Chief of the Hydrographic Office, Commander Clover, who has in his office accurate charts of both continents; they are especially valuable now and great care is being taken in their study. By this means every mile of the South American shore can be watched and advantage is thus taken of the materials that have been patiently collected in former years.

The greatest pressure, however, is being brought to bear on the Ordnance Bureau, which represents the fighting arm of the navy. The Chief of that bureau is getting most satisfactory results from the gun-making plant at the Washington yard, besides stimulating the steel manufacturers to their best efforts in the rapid production of material.

But above all the greatest activity has prevailed for some time in the Bureau of Naval Intelligence, the agents of which are said to have been at work on a plan of a possible campaign, besides collecting all imaginable information from abroad. It is through this bureau that the Secretary has kept himself thoroughly informed of the movements of the agents of Chili, who, it is rumored, have for some time been ransacking Europe for war material. The comprehensive operations now conducted by the department are largely for the purpose of ascertaining just what the naval system can accomplish in the event of hostilities, besides stimulating everybody to his best efforts as a means of useful training.

THOSE TORPEDOES.

THEIR SHIPMENT FROM MONTEVIDEO NOT AN INDICATION OF WAR.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—Mr. George Asta-Burnaga, who was Charge d'Affaires of the Chilian Legation in Washington during Balmaceda's Administration, gives some interesting information in regard to the lot of 100 torpedoes shipped to Chili, which Admiral Walker cabled from Montevideo were on the way to their destination. This heavy shipment of torpedoes was generally taken as an indication of Chili's preparations for war and an evidence that she is getting ready to fight the United States. Mr. Asta-Burnaga asserts positively that these torpedoes were ordered by Balmaceda during his supremacy and paid for by money shipped from Chili on a British man-of-war, which was the occasion of so much excitement. They were intended for operations against the insurgents and not against the United States. The former Charge d'Affaires knows whereof he speaks, as he was cognizant of the negotiations for the torpedoes when they were on their way.

While he deprecates war, he says that the Chilians will fight to the last if hostility has once been declared, but these naked above were in the mills, which leaves no doubt as to their fate.

It is estimated that at least 60,000 pounds of powder went off and the mills that cost in the neighborhood of $150,000, are damaged at least two-thirds of that amount.

A DWELLING LEVELED.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 18.—Near Oxmoor, seven miles south of Birmingham, a terrible explosion occurred yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, which cost two men their lives. An engine of the Bebartieben Coal & Iron Co., leased by the Monamara Bros., when running between Eureka Mines and Oxmoor, ran out of water, and the engineer made an effort to reach a tank half a mile away as soon as possible.

When at full speed the boiler exploded with a tremendous noise, wrecking the locomotive and blowing Engineer Joseph Hunt and Fireman Bladford into a thousand pieces. The track was torn up and a great hole dug in the ground. The head of the dead engineer was found a quarter of a mile away. People in that vicinity thought that an earthquake had occurred. Both men leave families.

A HOUSE LEVELED.

LANCASTER, O., Jan. 18.—At 6:30 this morning occurred the most disastrous explosion of natural gas in the history of natural gas here. The residence of Judge John S. Brazee, a two-story brick on North Columbus street, was leveled to the ground. Mrs. Brazee, four grown children and the servant were in bed at the time, Judge Brazee being the only occupant stirring. He was blown sixty feet across the street, where he was found unconscious and bleeding from several wounds about the head. It seems almost a miracle that none of the sleeping occupants of the house were seriously injured. The wall fell outward, and this probably saved their lives. Windows were broken for several squares around, and the organ in an adjoining church was ruined. The shock was felt for miles around. A leak in a pipe, it is supposed, filled the cellar and library with gas, which was ignited from the grate. The house and all its contents are ruined. Loss $9,000.

FATAL COASTING.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 18.—Saturday night a crowd of Nashville's society people were coasting on McGavock street, when Miss Mary Duncan was thrown violently from her seat and fatally injured. Medical aid was instantly summoned, and everything possible was done for her. One of the other occupants of the sled was seriously injured internally, the other riders escaping with only slight bruises. Miss Mattie Sleeman of Clarksville was also fatally hurt. Her right shoulder and hip were broken and she sustained other injuries internally. Henry Farrow dashed into a passing buggy near the Union Depot, breaking his skull. He died shortly afterward. Several other accidents are reported, but not fatal.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 17.—On Saturday last John Hamner, accompanied by a negro, left Tuscaloosa in a skiff to hunt up cattle on Warrior River. Nothing was heard from them and yesterday a searching party went down the river in skiffs. Hamner's dog was found curled up on a log almost frozen to death. Near by was the skiff and further on was Hamner's dead body in a kneeling attitude by a log. It was partly devoured by wood rats. Near by the negro's body was also found. They had evidently been caught by nightfall and frozen to death.

A BAD WRECK.

ANNISTON, ALA, Jan. 18.—A Georgia Pacific freight train was wrecked at Choccolocco, eight miles east of this city last night, and four cars demolished. All the other cars were derailed and the track badly torn up. Joe Sorras, the fireman, was severely hurt about his body and limbs. The wreck was caused by a drawhead dropping.

MEN AND TEAM ADRIFT.

MADISON, Ind., Jan. 18.—The river here is rising rapidly and is full of heavy drift. Two young men, one named Kruleman, went to the hand ferry at Carrollton last night and finding no one in charge, drove their horses and buggy aboard and attempted to man the boat. They were so intoxicated that it drifted away with them and nothing has been heard of them since.

Claims He Ruined Her.

John Brinckman of 3631 Nebraska avenue is the defendant named in a warrant for seduction issued this morning on complaint of Miss Mary A. Stodtler of 2719 Texas avenue, who is in a delicate condition. She told Mr. Estep she met Brinckman on Nov. 15, 1890. He went then and is still a grocery clerk in the neighborhood of her home. After keeping company with her about a year he promised to marry her, she claims, and wrote her several letters in which he repeated his promise. If she produced the letters. Under this promise she alleges, he wrought her ruin, and refuses to keep her promise.

An Exploding Powder Mill in Kentucky.

Seven Persons Killed and Many Injured.

ALL THE BUILDINGS IN A MASS OF RUINS.

A Terrific Concussion That Broke Windows Twenty Miles Distant—A House Leveled by Ignited Natural Gas—Two Men Frozen to Death—Men and Team Adrift—Casualties.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 18.—A special from Cattlettsburg, Ky., says the powder mills at Central City exploded this morning with terrific force. The sound was heard in Ironton, twenty-five miles away. Window-glass was broken in Cattlettsburg. Seven men were killed and six injured.

THE KILLED.

ARCHIE LIVINGSTONE.
E. D. WINTON.
JOHN BENTON.
CHAS. SCOTT.
JOHN SCHAUSTER.

INJURED.

E. D. COOK and JOHN KRAUSN, fatally burned.
REESE ESTEP, burned.
JOHN JUSTICE, struck by timber.
CHARLES NALLY, cut on head.

Also a number of others, who were able to go to their homes. The explosion began in the glazor, and was followed immediately by the two-wheel mills, magazine and coining mill, all of which are totally demolished, while the other buildings that yet are standing are all badly torn up and the machinery badly damaged.

The adjoining field is covered with the debris, so thickly strewn that one can not but step on it, and among this were found mangled remains that lay in the impressed morgue wholly unidentified.

It is impossible to say just how many are killed, but those named above were in the mills, which leaves no doubt as to their fate.

It is estimated that at least 60,000 pounds of powder went off and the mills that cost in the neighborhood of $150,000, are damaged at least two-thirds of that amount.

FATAL COASTING.

NASHVILLE

ANOTHER CASE

Ziegenhein's Dealings With Saloonkeeper Dzengolewski.

Remarkable Efforts to Keep a Dramshop Proprietor in Business.

THE COLLECTOR WAS WILLING TO ISSUE AN ILLEGAL LICENSE.

A Deputy's Offer of a Surreptitious License Refused—"Keep It in the Drawer and Make Hay While the Sun Shines"—A Startling Case—The "Post-Dispatch" Exposure Officially Indorsed.

Another striking instance of City Collector Ziegenhein's method of running the dramshop license department of his office to enhance his own personal popularity regardless of the laws governing that department came to light to-day. It makes a startling addition to the exposures of the "Ziegenhein methods" already made by the Post-Dispatch, and following as it does the remarkable story told in yesterday's Sunday Post-Dispatch of how Collector Zeigenhein's deputies personally attended to the work of delaying legal action in the case against saloonkeeper Caspar Ronsick of 2,500 Goode avenue, who was doing a saloon business without a license, to-day's story still further shows the Collector's utter disregard of dram-shop laws and regulations when they threaten to interfere with his own peculiar plan of "making himself solid with the boys."

Last July the dramshop license of Charles Dzengolewski, doing business at No. 4100 Finney avenue, expired. In August Mr. Dzengolewski presented his application to Collector Ziegenhein for a renewal of that license. The application was accompanied by a petition having the signatures of the same number of citizens living in that block as had the first application upon which the original license had been issued. Collector Ziegenhein this time, however, refused to renew Mr. Dzengolewski's license on the ground that the petition for its renewal did not contain a sufficient number of signatures. Collector Ziegenhein told Mr. Dzengolewski to take the petition back and obtain more signatures, and then his license would be renewed.

In the meantime there had been two new saloons opened in that immediate neighborhood. One, that of Marre Bros., stood directly opposite Dzengolewski's place, to the east, but in another city block. The other, that of a Capt. Warner, was only a few doors west of Mr. Dzengolewski's place, and in the same city block, and it is said that Capt. Warren's license had been granted on a petition containing no more signatures than that upon which Dzengolewski's renewal of license had been refused, owing, however, to these two new saloons in the neighborhood, the West End Protective Association had begun bitter opposition to the issuing of any more saloon licenses in that neighborhood, and Mr. Dzengolewski was aware of that fact.

THE THREAT AND ITS EFFECT.

"I can't get one more name signed to that petition," said saloonkeeper Dzengolewski to Collector Ziegenhein. "If you cannot renew my license on that petition I will go out of the business. The feeling against saloons is too strong in this neighborhood for me to get another name signed to my petition."

And with that plain statement of the situation Saloonkeeper Dzengolewski withdrew from the Collector's presence.

From that moment Mr. Dzengolewski made no further effort to get his dramshop license renewed. He had from Collector Ziegenhein full notice to act, and the matter rested with the Collector to see that the unlicensed saloon did not keep open. But there was no action taken by Collector Ziegenhein to enforce the law. Instead of arresting Saloonkeeper Dzengolewski continued to keep his saloon open and do a dramshop business without a dramshop license. He was allowed to do so for three months, for it was only in November last that in some way this violation of the liquor law was legally noticed. In that month Mr. Dzengolewski received notice that suit had been entered against him for violation of the liquor law. He made no effort to resist the suit, but prepared to close his saloon and thereafter attend to the grocery business, which he was also conducting on the same corner.

ZIEGENHEIN'S STRANGE OVERTURES.

Then began a strange series of overtures to Saloon-keeper Dzengolewski from Collector Ziegenhein. Although Dzengolewski had plainly told the Collector that he would not present a more satisfactory petition for the renewal of his license than that already refused by Ziegenhein, it seemed that the Collector hated to see Saloon-keeper Dzengolenski go out of business with hard feelings against himself. That the liquor laws made it imperative for Dzengolewski to close his saloon apparently cut no figure in Collector Ziegenhein's calculations.

After refusing to issue the license, and with a suit against Dzengolewski then pending, and with Dzengolewski preparing to quit the saloon business, Collector Ziegenhein began a siege of persuasion to keep Mr. Dzengolewski in the saloon business in violation of the law. He sent his deputies to Dzengolewski's place actually to collect the license money for the license which had been denied, and to urge Dzengolewski to keep his place open. The latter replied that he did not just then have the money to pay the license, and that anyway he could not hope that the license could be legally granted, as it was impossible for him to get more signatures to his petition. Consequently Saloon-keeper Dzengolewski told the Collector's deputy he intended to quit the saloon business at once, and so there was no reason why he should make further effort to conform with the liquor laws. He would let the case in court take its course and would close his saloon when the case went against him.

ZIEGENHEIN'S LAW-BREAKING PROPOSITION.

But still Collector Ziegenhein was apparently determined to thwart the laws governing his office and thereby keep Saloon-keeper Dzengolewski in the saloon business. The case in court against Dzengolewski was set for a certain Friday in November. On the Wednesday night preceding, one of Collector Ziegenhein's deputies called on Dzengolewski to try and "figure things" with him and to keep the saloon man from going out of business. The deputy then asked Dzengolewski for the license money and was told that it was not forthcoming. He replied as follows:

"That makes no difference, Dzengolewski. Just give me your check and that will do. Then you can come down and get your license and it will be all right."

This promise was made in the face of the fact that Dzengolewski's application for a dram-shop license did not contain a sufficient number of signatures to make the issuing of the license legal under the liquor laws.

But the deputy from Ziegenhein's office did not content himself with that direct promise to violate the law. Saloon-Keeper Dzengolewski told the full story of that remarkable visit to a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning and he says that finally Collector Ziegenhein's deputy, whose name he does not know, said to him:

"Look here, Dzengolewski, you had better make hay while the sun shines. Pay this license money and come and get your license. You need not pay the license on your wall until you have smoothed the trouble over about your petition. Just keep the license in a drawer, and if anybody bothers you, why you can show the legal license and that will settle it."

Again Saloon-keeper Dzengolewski refused to accept this remarkable offer of the City Collector extended through a deputy of that official. That night Dzengolewski closed his saloon, and has not reopened it since. He went out of business despite Collector Ziegenhein's most kind efforts to keep him in business in violation of the law. But still Collector Ziegenhein hated to see a saloonkeeper go out of business, probably cherishing hard feelings against the Collector, and the effort to keep Dzengolewski's saloon open continued on the part of Collector Ziegenhein.

ANOTHER REMARKABLE OFFER.

Friday morning the case against Saloonkeeper Dzengolewski was called in the Police Court.

The Prosecuting Attorney of that court promptly had the case thrown out of court.

Then again Collector Zeigenhein's obliging deputy call on Mr. Dzengolewski and entreated him to go to Collector Ziegenhein's office and get his license. The deputy was told that Dzengolewski did not have time.

"Then give me a check," said he," and we will send you a license. It will be all right."

But this offer was refused as had been the others. Dzengolewski had determined to go out of the saloon business unless he could remain in it legally, and accordingly he has made no efforts since to reopen his saloon, confining his attention to his grocery business exclusively. Even yet he was not through with solicitations from Collector Ziegenhein to remain in business. The last expiring effort of the Collector itself bore upon its face the evidence that the Collector was trying to keep Dzengolewski in the saloon business in violation of the law. Only a few days since Mr. Dzengolewski received the following notice:

ZIEGENHEIN'S LAST EFFORT.

No..... When due, Jan. 4, 1892.

OFFICE OF COLLECTOR.

St. Louis,.....1892.

Mr. Chas. Dzengolewski, 4100 Finney avenue:

You are respectfully notified to call at my office and pay your State and City Dramshop Licenses.

City Dramshop License, for every 6 months,	$250.00
State Dramshop License, for every 6 months,	25.00
Ad Valorem	4.00
Register Fee	50
Total	$279.50

Petitions for dramshop licenses are required to be signed by a majority of the assessed tax-paying citizens in the block.

A license is void if issued without a proper petition.

Each applicant is required to furnish to this office a statement, under oath, of the amount of intoxicating liquors received at his dramshop during the period of his last preceding license.

The Collector is prohibited from issuing a license to any person who has been convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of the Dramshop Law.

For particulars of the Dramshop Law, see chapter 98 of the revised statutes, and amendments thereto, and city ordinance No. 12,510.

HENRY ZEIGENHEIN, Collector.

Office, East Wing Court House, Fourth st.

RETURN THIS NOTICE.

Office Hours—8 a. m. to 8 p. m., April 1 to Oct. 1; 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Oct. 1 to April 1.

The paragraphs in the above notice stating that "petitions for dramshop licenses are required to be signed by a majority of the assessed tax-paying citizens in the block," and "that a license is void if issued without a proper petition," themselves show that Collector Zeigenhein would have violated the laws in carrying out his own promise to issue a license to Saloon-keeper Dzengolewski so surreptiously that it could not now be "hung upon the wall" of the saloon to which the citizens of the block objected. It is only through the unwillingness of Saloon-keeper Dzengolewski to violate the law that his saloon is not open to-day.

The following resolutions adopted at a meeting of the West End Protective Association, indorsing the Post-Dispatch exposures of Collector Ziegenhein's methods in the dramshop license department of his office, will also be found interesting:

INDORSING THE POST-DISPATCH.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the West End Protective Association held on the 15th inst., the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The citizens of the West End, as well as other localities in St. Louis, have had saloons established in their midst by methods that are a libel on honest government and a disgrace to civilization—methods that should receive the condemnation of every honest man, irrespective of his education, country or connection; methods that are a slur dishonorable to the beneficiaries and to those that were the instruments by which the disgraceful end was accomplished; methods that, if allowed to go on unrebuked, would end in debauching public morals, destroying respect for the laws and holding up to contempt a people that would quietly submit to such debasing influences. Therefore be it

Resolved, That we continue our organization as a standing against the reprehensible, and we two that we invite residents of other sections of the city to join us or form associations in their own respective neighborhoods.

Resolved, That our thanks and congratulations be extended to the Post-Dispatch for its bold and manly attitude in exposing the shams and frauds of the officials and in throwing the light of day on the methods of securing signers to saloon petitions.

Resolved, That we call on those in sympathy with us in this fight to give expression to their sentiments through the Post-Dispatch; we desire to know who our friends are.

Resolved, That we ask the Post-Dispatch to continue its powerful influence in behalf of this movement, and can assure it of our support and that of 50,000 people in this city.

We, the committee, in behalf of the West End Protective Association, with a membership of 150.

D. Strawbridge, President.
Geo. M. Crotty, Secretary.
Dr. Jas. L. Day,
Dr. J. Campbell,
D. Minnick,
George B. Burnett.

The "Ziegenhein method" will receive further attention from the Post-Dispatch, for the campaign already made by Saloon-keeper Dzengolewski has developed many features followed by other developments which demand the light of day on their remarkable features. Collector Ziegenhein has intrenched himself behind a wall of non-committal and unbreakable silence, but the Post-Dispatch investigation fortunately does hot depend upon the Collector's willingness to explain his peculiar methods to that public whose servant he is. The facts will be forthcoming despite the Collector's dislike for them. They are due to the people interested in the proper conduct of the City Collector's office.

BRENNAN TO GO FREE.

The Slayer of Col. Sam Wood Will Not Be Tried.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 18.—Col. Pitzer, who is one of the lawyers of the defense in the Brennan case, is in the city. According to Col. Pitzer the case which will be called at Hugoton to-morrow will be nolle prosequied and the slayer of Col. Sam Wood will be a free man. Attorney-General Ives says that there is little likelihood of Brennan ever being tried, but that he will be arrested if Stevens County ever becomes thickly enough populated to permit of securing a jury. There is no doubt but that the next Legislature will disorganize the district, as it is simply an expense to the people.

The killing of Wood by Brennan was one of the many tragedies connected with the Stevens County seat vendetta. Brennan is a henchman of Judge Botkin and killed Wood last spring at the Court-house at Hugoton. At the last term of court it was demonstrated that a jury could not be gotten in the county, as every man in the jurisdiction was either a strong friend of Brennan or his bitter enemy. The State cannot take a change of venue, and of course Brennan has no desire to do so.

Stabbed by a Rival.

Hattie Epps, a colored girl, 19 years of age, was sitting before a fire in her room at 807 North Eleventh street about 1 o'clock this morning when Julia Perry, a negro woman, burst into the room with an open knife in her hand which she plunged into the girl's arm. She disappeared as suddenly as she came. An officer attracted by the girl's screams went into the house and sent the girl to the Dispensary. She said she did not know of any reason for the assault unless her assailant was jealous of her. The Perry woman was arrested this morning at her home on Seventh and Clark avenue.

MUST DEED IT BACK.

Judge Fisher's Opinion in the Elizabeth Kennerly Case.

ROBERT P. WARING ORDERED TO RETURN HIS SISTER'S PROPERTY.

The Court Declares That the Woman Was of Unsound Mind When She Deeded Away Her Estate—She Left Herself Penniless by Her Action—Other Cases in Court.

Judge Fisher rendered an opinion to-day in the Kennerly case, in which Elizabeth Kennerly sued her brother, Robert P. Waring, to obtain possession of about $50,000 worth of property—all she possessed—which she deeded to him believing herself to be near her death. Judge Fisher sets aside the deeds of conveyance and reinvests the title of the property in Mrs. Kennerly.

Mrs. Kennerly is well-known in South St. Louis where her property is situated and where she has lived for years. She was very charitable and founded an institution for the care of young girls, which is still maintained. The troubles which have encompassed the path of Mrs. Kennerly, who is an old lady almost 70 years old, for the past two years began in 1889, when she was taken sick. Her illness began with a stroke of apoplexy, o paralysis. She was living alone, but had some relatives. A brother, Robert P. Waring, the defendant in the present suit, came from his home in Kentucky with his wife to take care of his sister. In a short time he was in possession of everything his sister possessed, she having deeded it to him.

Other relatives took fright and Mrs. Kennerly was arraigned before the Probate Court on a charge of insanity. She was declared sane, however, only to find herself a pauper dependent on her brother's bounty. He had been engaged in farming in Kentucky, but took up his residence in St. Louis, domiciling himself in his sister's comfortable residence in South St. Louis in which she had lived for the past twenty years.

LIVED WITH THE BROTHER.

Mrs. Kennerly lived with him for a time, but according to the evidence at the trial, it soon became very unpleasant for her, and she left and took up her abode at the Mission Home which she had founded.

She then conceived the idea of trying to get her property back and laid her case before Smith & Wilcox who have acted as her counsel throughout the case. It was a hard battle to fight, as she was entirely without means, while her brother had at his command the income from her estate with which to fight the case. The first suit brought by Mrs. Kennerly's attorney had to be abandoned, her husband's lawyer coming into court with a motion for security for costs in the case, which Mrs. Kennerly was unable to give.

Mrs. Kennerly's lawyers then petitioned the court for leave to allow their client to sue as a poor person, which was granted. Then the case began, the case was delayed on one pretext or another. Meantime Waring was in possession of the estate, with power to borrow money on the real estate, and in addition to give the rental and revenue from notes. Smith & Wilcox finally obtained an order by Judge Fisher to have a receiver appointed for the estate pending the decision of the case. Waring's ammunition being thus cut off, all opposition to a speedy trial was removed and the case was heard some little time before the holidays.

THE OPINION.

Judge Fisher gave his views on the case to-day in an oral opinion as follows:

"In the case of Elizabeth Kennerly vs. Robert P. Waring, to set aside certain deeds of conveyances of property, deeds of trust, notes, etc. The plaintiff is an old lady, and some time in the fall of 1889 was taken sick. It began with a stroke of apoplexy or paralysis or something like that. She lived alone, apart from her relatives and had no desire to have them about her. Her friends, becoming alarmed, insisted, somehow or other, the address of her brother, Robert P. Waring, the defendant in the present suit, and sent for him. He arrived soon after in Kentucky, I believe. He came on and afterward sent for his wife. In less than a month after he had taken charge he was in possession of everything his sister had.

"The deed of transfer was made Jan. 24. On the day previous—that is on Jan. 23—Mrs. Kennerly was examined by Dr. Hughes and her family physician. Both of them pronounced her insane. In spite of that, however, the deed was executed the next day.

"After that the plaintiff was arraigned in the Probate Court as insane. She was done at the instance of some nephews and other relatives, I believe. After that another deed was made out presumably to cover any defects which existed in the first deed. The plaintiff owned several small houses, and all of these were included in the transfer. About the same time another transfer was made by the plaintiff of household goods—everything she owned in the world—to the defendant.

THE TRANSFER.

The transfer was first made to the wife of defendant, but she declined to receive it. The defendant then changed his wife's name, so he states, and substituted his own.

"Now there is no doubt in my mind but at the time these transfers were made that the plaintiff was out of her mind. She was troubled and bothered and not in her right mind. The transfers therefore must be set aside. This follows as a matter of law. A preliminary decree will therefore be entered setting aside the deeds of transfer. The defendant borrowed $8,000 to defend the action in the Probate Court. The decree will stand in favor of Judge Botkin and killed Wood last spring at the Court-house at Hugoton. At the last term of court it was demonstrated that a jury could not be gotten in the county, as every man in the jurisdiction was either a strong friend of Brennan or his bitter enemy. The State cannot take a change of venue, and of course Brennan has no desire to do so.

Special Market Letter.

Private Wire to J. F. Grier.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The wheat market opened firm and no doubt kept higher by the end of to-day's close. Although the news from the East to the effect that anow was making a blanket for the protection of the plant, and no cables were conflicting, Eastern holders marketed their holdings, and the close was at bottom price for the day. The news regarding Indian shipments discouraged holders. The market may hesitate on the decline before February, but with the demand at present for cash wheat, liberal exports and decrease in visible supply, coupled with an increasing surplus of money at principal centers, which may at any hour enter into speculation, we feel of the opinion that purchases on these breaks will prove satisfactory.

We believe in provisions at present prices and believe that the outside holders have less speculatives holdings than usual at this season and that outside of the South the demand is and will continue large and growing, especially with foreign countries who have reduced duties or made treaties of reciprocity. Easy money will drift in speculation, and that together with packers' interests not to depress the market, which we consider a feature at this time, should, and we think will, have a gradual hardening tendency.

Little activity in corn or oats and markets steady. Estimated receipts for to-morrow: Wheat, 234 cars; corn, 450 cars; oats, 325 cars.

AMONG THE BROKERS.

A Good Market—Stocks Sold and Prices Obtained To-Day.

There was more trading than usual on the Mining Exchange this morning, and prices generally were strong.

The most marked advance was in Hope This stock rose to $2.50 before a sale was made, and at that figure 200 shares changed hands. More was wanted, but the lowest offers were at $2.75. News was received at the office that the pulp assays had turned out unexpectedly well, the assays running up to 40 ounces. The mill is now running night and day.

Elizabeth opened strong, 100 shares bringing 16¼, but from this point the stock declined; 200 shares brought 75 and 100 shares sold at 75¾, the market closing at 70 bid, 73¾ asked.

A sale of 3,000 Leo was made at 13. Later 2,000 shares were offered at that price, with 12 bid.

Small Hopes was strong, 100 shares selling at 95.

Granite Mountain rose to $16, and twenty shares changed hands at the quotation.

The following quotations were made on call to-day:

	BID.	ASK.		BID.	ASK.
Adams	1 80	.....	Montrose	.....	10
Bellefontaine	85	.....	Mt. Rose	½	1¼

The market was active and sales were large in amount.

The McCoy-Webster Fisticuffs.

The charge of disturbing the peace preferred by George Barry Webster against John C. McCoy was continued until Jan. 25, in the First District Police Court this morning, owing to the non-appearance of the prosecuting witness, who sent word that he was unable to be in court. This was the case which grew out of the fisticuffs indulged in between these two gentlemen in the Commercial Building Saturday afternoon. Mr. McCoy denies that Webster was acting as attorney for a client when he wrote him the letter which caused the trouble, and in supporting what he says, exhibits the letter in which Webster used very abusive language and stated that if McCoy did not call upon him and offer him an apology for his conduct he would hunt him up and thrash him on sight. Mr. McCoy says that the conduct of his about which Webster complained was his refusal to let the young man have a rig on credit after he had ordered it on a representation that it was wanted by Mr. Webster, Sr. Mr. McCoy says that he met Webster in the corridor of the building by chance and did not see him until he had notified him of his intention to whip him and the young man had put himself in a fighting attitude.

River News.

The St. L. & Miss. V. T. Co. will have all their boats out just as soon as the river opens. They have several trips booked.

The annual election of officers of the St. Louis, Naples & Peoria Packet Co. takes place next week.

Harry Nunn, freight clerk on the City of Paducah, will visit his parents at Owensboro, Ky., while the river is frozen up.

There are several boats in a pretty bad condition should the ice in the river move rapidly, and unless extra precautions are taken some of them may be lost.

John Davisson of the Idlewild is visiting relatives at Merrepoint, Ill.

Capt. Frank Dickey has arrived safely in Europe.

Capt. Alfred Simpson is at home from a visit to Dubuque.

Capt. Mat P. Fulton is still in Dubuque keeping books.

A new office has been created in the Memphis & Cincinnati Packet Co. It is that of Auditor.

The following officers have been appointed for the Bald Eagle next season: Captain, Alex Lamont; Clerk, E. D. Young; Isaac Walker, Steward; Boone Allen, Engineer.

The new Steamboat Clerks' Society is booming and several new applications are coming in daily. The Engineers' Society and Pilots' Society are also in a flourishing condition.

It is said the White Eagle will go up Illinois River for a trip when the river opens.

Capt. Harry Wasiak's pilot has la grippe.

Capt. McKinney says the A. L. Mason is in the best ice harbor of any boat around St. Louis.

Capt. Jim Rees is still under the weather, but is improving rapidly.

The Iron Duke, Capt. Dick Morrow's big tow boat, will clear $10,000 on her present trip to New Orleans.

Three packets had to lose a trip each at New Orleans last week on account of labor. The rousters demanded $100 per month and board and would not go for any less. And still they do not average over eight hours a day at work.

Capt. Warren Johnson has just returned from a trip to Jeffersonville, where he went to look at the new boat for his company, Clerks' Society. He says she is a beauty and that the work is progressing finely.

Charley Stafford, the well known ship carpenter left for Jeffersonville yesterday to go on the New Illinois river packet.

Work is progressing nicely on the D. H. Pike at Paducah, and she will soon be furnished.

The funeral of Capt. Charles D. Carroll was largely attended Thursday. Among the floral tributes was one from the Steamboat Clerks' Society, another from the Mascogula line, and another from the employes of the Mascogula line.

There is considerable floating property in danger should the breakup come with a rush, and the danger might run up several thousand dollars.

Fred Worley and a large party of steamboatmen went over in Illinois yesterday on a hunting expedition. They report having a fine time.

The wife of Capt. Warren Johnson is laid up with la grippe.

WHO BEARS THE LOSS?

$2,123,456.78

When a check is raised who bears the loss? If the amount is not cut in the paper with a machine and the signature is genuine it is difficult to make the bank pay, because "the bank is not bound to know the handwriting or the genuineness of the filling up of the check."—55 N. Y., 210. Many use machines to cut the figures because it makes them safe by law. A Cincinnati firm paid $500 in court and lawyers' fees to compel a bank to bear a loss of less than $800, and in that case the bank should have paid without a word, because there was a forged indorsement involved. It is always expensive to contest a case in court, and the suit is almost certain to result in failure if the signature is genuine and skillful erasure with acids has left no trace of alteration.

Some think they are secure from loss because they send their checks only to responsible firms; but it is almost never that a check is raised by the one for whom it is written. It may pass from good hands to bad by indorsement, and where there are three or four indorsements it would cost more than the average value of a check to prove who raised it. Checks are frequently obtained from letters, and a Minneapolis alderman had a check for $8 taken from a letter in a street mail-box, in October, treated with acids, made payable to bearer and cashed at the bank for $300. His check perforator would have cost less had he purchased it before this occurrence.

Some trust in tinted paper, or use an embossing stamp, or write the amount in red ink across the signature, but there is no protection equal to that of cutting the amount in the paper with a machine. An expert can remove any ink from any paper, and even erase red ink without destroying the signature across which it is written. It does not take an expert to beat the embossing stamp.

Some say they never have had a check raised, but, like fire, check-raising may not happen to a firm in many years, and it may happen any day.

The Banking Law Journal, in a recent issue, says: "Bankers should urge on their depositors the adoption of more effective means to check the scourge of forgery which infects the land."

Active Work Begun to Secure the Democratic Convention.

SENATOR HILL MAY DICTATE THE COMMITTEE'S SELECTION.

Recruits Flocking to the Support of the Various Claimants—Female Suffragists Pleading Their Cause—Nominations by the President—Treasury Department Ruling Sustained—Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—The Democratic committee will meet in Washington next Thursday to select the place for holding the National Convention. During the next two days the early morning trains arriving here will bring large delegations of boomers from the various cities competing for the honor. Cincinnati's advance guard arrived to-day and will have headquarters at the Arlington.

Milwaukee, Kansas City, New York, San Francisco and St. Paul will also have headquarters at the Arlington. Mayor Sommers and W. A. Walker of the Milwaukee delegation are already here. Delegations from Kansas City, Indianapolis, San Francisco, New York, etc., will be here to-morrow. St. Paul has a delegation here, and it will be strengthened by a committee from Minneapolis.

Mr. Michael Doran of St. Paul, member of the Democratic Committee from Minnesota, is at the Arlington. He is one of the most enthusiastic workers, and says the convention will go to St. Paul if Senator Hill keeps his hands off. "The next Democratic convention will go to the city," said he, "which Mr. Hill designates, but "if the Senator from New York follows the advice he has been given, he will stand aside and permit the contest to be a free-for-all fight without any handicap. The great trouble with the Senator is that he does not know when to stop or when he has enough. He now has New York, Tammany, the Speaker of the House and all the committee chairmanships, and his latest victory is the capture of the House restaurant. He now wants, it seems, the convention placed where he designates. St. Paul wants the convention and will take proper care of it. She has no candidates, and everybody will be fairly treated."

Mr. Atkins, a Vermont member, is in the city, and is understood to be in favor of New York City. Brad Smalley is also here. Mr. Smalley was formerly a member of the Committee, and when he resigned Mr. Atkins was appointed. Mr. Smalley is supposed to be here for the purpose of coaching his successor, and there is no secret as to Mr. Smalley's choice. He is for any location Senator Gorman wants. The Senator favors New York, hence Mr. Smalley is for New York, and the attitude of Mr. Atkins can be very easily guessed.

Mr. Erskin H. Phelps, the Illinois member, is now on a tour around the world, but his proxy is in the hands of Representative Cable of that State.

Mr. Henry Watterson will cast the vote of Kentucky for Cincinnati. Much objection is made to Cincinnati, however, for the reason that it is too hot there at convention time and for the furthe and more potent reason that if the convention is taken there it is the intention of the politicians of that section to spring Senator Carlisle as the candidate.

DETROIT MOVING.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 18.—At noon to-day a delegation comprising fifty prominent citizens will start for Washington with a guarantee of $50,000 and a limitless supply of promises to present the claims of this city to the National Democratic Committee. The delegation will include Gov. Winans, Mayor H. S. Pingree, ex-Congressmen Maybury and Tarnsey, Wm. E. Quimby, Don. M. Dickinson and Jesse H. Farwell.

The committee which has had charge of the preparations has already secured many promises from National Committemen to support the city's claims.

CONGRESSIONAL.

ONLY A FEW SENATORS IN THEIR SEATS—THE PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—There were six Senators on the Democratic side of the Senate Chamber and about twice that number on the Republican side, with about three score of spectators in the galleries when the Chaplain opened with prayer the seventh week of the session.

Mr. Sherman, for the first time since his re-election, occupied his seat.

Mr. Platt presented a memorial and petition signed by John Jay, President, and other officers of the National League for the Protection of American Institutions for an amendment to the constitution to prevent the union of church and state and to forbid the appropriation of public money to any societies under sectarian control.

After a number of bills of minor importance had been reported from committee and placed on the calendar the introduction of bills was once more resumed.

THE HOUSE.

When the House met at noon to-day Mr. Kelly of Pennsylvania asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to what amount of money has been appropriated and is available under the Act of April 25, 1890, relating to the World's Exposition at Chicago, and what amount of money so appropriated has been expended, with an itemized statement showing to whom it has been paid and for what purposes. Adopted.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

FEMALE SUFFRAGISTS BEFORE THE HOUSE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Susan B. Anthony, Miss Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Miss Lucy Stone, and Miss Howell Hooker appeared before the House Committee on Judiciary today in support of the joint resolution introduced in the House by Mr. Greenleaf of New York, proposing an amendment to the Constitution, extending to women the right to vote at all Federal elections. Each lady addressed the committee, advocating the passage of the resolution. The resolution submits to the Legislatures of the several States the proposed amendment to the Constitution. The committee took the matter under consideration.

NOMINATIONS.

The President to-day sent to the Senate the following nominations: A. A. Bowman, Collector of Internal Revenue, Second District of Tennessee; Powell Clayton, Jr., of Arkansas, to be Second Lieutenant of Cavalry.

Mrs. Orvis' Lecture on Spiritualism.

Mrs. Anna Orvis addressed a large audience at Howard's Hall on subjects of interest to spiritualists and believers therein. The speaker said that there was no question as to the truth of materialization of the spirit. She declared that the truth of the materialization is entirely dependent upon the condition of the investigator and that skepticism is the great bar to satisfactory results. Mrs. Orvis declared that life was everlasting and that death does not destroy but merely changes. Mrs. Orvis spoke on several subjects connected with spiritualism, and answered numerous questions asked by the audience.

WILLIAM SAYERS CONFINED.

The Wife of a Well-Known Resident of Carondelet Causes His Arrest.

About 2 o'clock this morning the quiet and peaceful neighborhood of Michigan avenue and Bowen street were aroused from their slumbers by three pistol shots which were fired in rapid succession and a series of shrill cries for police. It was thought at first that a murder had been attempted or committed. The residents of the neighborhood rushed toward their windows and in less than a minute heads could be seen stretched out in hopes of seeing what caused the shots to be fired. When the sound of the last shot died away, some one could be heard pounding viciously at a door and yelling for admittance. At this juncture Policeman George Eckhard made his appearance and placed the man who was pounding at the door under arrest. It was William Sayers Officer Eckhard asked the man if he fired the shots and upon being answered in the negative at once began to investigate as to who did. Sayers was taken to the police station, but was released, as there was no case against him. This morning Mrs. Adele Sayers called at the police station and asked the police to have her husband William taken care of as it was feared the man was losing his reason. Some time ago it was learned Mr. Sayers was confined in an asylum on account of a spell of insanity. Since then it is alleged Mrs. Sayers has been living with her parents, 6100 Michigan avenue. Last night or rather during the early hours of this morning, Wm. Sayers came to the house and attempted to get in. He began to pound and kick at the door, making a fearful noise. When called to he would not desist. It was then that the cries for help and the pistol shots were heard. About 10 o'clock this morning Officer Eckhard arrested Sayers on Broadway at the instigation of his wife. The man was locked up. Immediately upon his being confined in the calaboose he seemed to lose all reason and began to act as an insane person. Mr. Sayers is well known in the South End and is considered to be a refined and learned gentleman. His queer actions have caused him considerable trouble.

Ten Dollars and for Life.

From the Detroit Free Press.

It happened long ago in a Western mining town. There wasn't a preacher in the place, and when an exceedingly raw young man and woman desired to marry the services of the Police Judge were called in. He had never had any experience in that branch of his authority, but with true Western enterprise he agreed to tackle the job, and the culprits were brought before him.

"Stand up," he said, as they seated themselves, and they stood up.

"Come forward to the bar of justice," he continued, with a pompous effort, and they came.

"Guilty or not guilty?" he asked, as they stood before him holding hands.

"Guilty, your Honor," responded the groom.

"Is this your first offense?"

"It is, your honor, so help me."

"Well, there's nothing to do but impose a life sentence on both of you and assess the groom for the costs."

"How much, your Honor?" asked the groom, going down into his pockets.

"Ten dollars."

The groom handed it over.

"Case is dismissed," announced the Judge, and the innocent young things marched out of her room as radiant as a June morning when the sunlight kisses the roses until they blush again.

His Offending Ligneous Limb.

From the Washington Evening Star.

"A cork leg is no end of a bore," said the man who limped to a Star writer. "Just think of it! I was at a dinner party the other night, and it was my happy lot to have a most charming damsel fall to my share at the feast. We conversed most pleasantly through the oysters and the soup, but when fish came on she became silent and seemed unaccountably embarrassed. To draw her from this mood I redoubled my efforts to please, but in response she only flushed and looked angry. Finally, interrupting me in the midst of a little mot which I had composed carefully while dressing for the dinner, she said sotto-voce:

"'I thank you to stop squeezing my foot!'"

"Imagine my embarrassment. I had been treading upon her toes with my cork foot—of course without knowing it. Could anything have been more innocent? It is an annoying thing to have to explain to a young lady at a social festivity. Nevertheless, I was forced to do so. She accepted my apology, and then proceeded to injure my feelings by giggling."

When the Rope Broke.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

The tug-of-war craze seems to have come to stay. Whenever a crowd assembles and a rope can be begged, borrowed or stolen there is an international tug.

The other morning the back-yard fence of an up-town boarding-house could have been seen bending under a mass of howling humanity. Any stranger would have thought a fire or a homicide was in progress inside the fence, but it was only three little shrimps in short pants and two little girls in sunbonnets having an impromptu tug-of-war on clothes line. Excited sisters, cousins and aunts, regardless of lack of powder, paint and bangs, rushed out of the boarding-house and took sides, till the flimsy line gave way, and what a fall was there, my countrymen!

Several of the more excitable spectators dropped off the top of the fence like dead flies from the ceiling when that line gave way, and sixteen maidens on one side threw a sensational flip-flap, while half a score of athletic matrons on the other side knocked splinters out of the floor with their hairpins.

Frugality in Rich Attire.

From the Washington Post.

A young lady tells of an incident that happened in a dressmaking store here recently. She was being waited on by one of the young lady clerks and had noticed an elegantly dressed lady impatiently tapping her toe on the floor, finally speaking up with: "I've been waiting nearly half an hour for my change. When it comes will you keep it for me?"

"I cannot, madame; it is against the rules of the store," the clerk replied. "How much is it?" she finally asked, as the richly dressed customer continued to wait.

"It's a penny."

Ashes on the Slide.

When Jim and Bill and I were boys a many years ago,
How gayly did we use to hail the coming of the snow!
Our sleds, fresh painted red and with their runners round and bright,
Seemed to respond right briskly to our clamor of delight,
As we dragged them up the slippery road that climbed the rugged hill,
Where perched the old frame mestin' house, so solemn like and still.

Ah, coasting in those days—those good old days—was fun indeed!
Sleds at that time, I'd have you know, were paragons of speed!
And if the hill got bare in spots, as hills will do, why, then
We'd haul on ice and snow to patch those bald spots up again!
But, oh! with what sad certainty our spirits would subside,
When Deacon Frisbee sprinkled ashes where we used to slide!

The deacon he would roll his eyes and smash his toothless gums
And clear his skinny throat and twirl his saintly, bony thumbs
And tell you: "When I wuz a boy, they taught me to eschew
The godless, ribald vanities which modern youth pursue!
The pathway that leads down to hell is slippery, straight and wide.
And Satan lurks for prey where little boys are wont slide!"

Now, he who ever in his life has been a little boy
Will not reprove me when he hears the language I employ
To stigmatize as wickedness the deacon's zealous spite
In interfering with the play wherein we found delight,
And so I say, with confidence, not unalloyed of pride:
"God durn the man who sprinkles ashes where the youngsters slide!"

But Deacon Frisbee long ago went to his lasting rest,
His money well invested in farm mortgages out West;
Bill, Jim and I, no longer boys, have learned through years of strife
That the troubles of the little boy pursue the man through life,
That here and there along the course wherein we hoped to glide
Some envious hand has sprinkled ashes just to spoil our slide!

And that malicious, envious hand is not the deacon's now,
Grim, ruthless Fate! that evil sprite none other is than thou!
Riches and honors, peace and care come at thy beck and nod,
The soul, elate with joy to-day, to-morrow writhes in woe!
And till a man has turned his face unto the wall and died
He must expect to get his share of ashes on his slide!

LOWELL'S ZEPHYRS.

The Stench Nuisance Cases Set for Hearing To-Day.

THEY COME UP BEFORE JUDGE CLAIBORNE ON AN APPEAL.

How the Prosecutions Have Been Allowed to Drag Along—Apathy of the City Officials—Proceedings Before the Board of Health—Jim Hardy's Slop Contract to Be Passed Upon.

The trial of the Lowell nuisance cases came up at 2 o'clock to-day in the Court of Criminal Correction under the appeal taken from the decision of Judge Paxson. The cases came up on Jan. 7 and the defense asked that the case be tried by a jury, so it was laid over until to day.

The fact that the rendering works and bone factories are nuisances to the whole of the Lowell District has been established beyond any question, and it is now merely a matter of meeting and defeating all the legal tricks and ruses the defendants are resorting to, and eventually fining them in such sums that they will either abate the nuisances or take them away entirely. The Board of Health will meet to act on the subject this afternoon, but it is not certain that anything will be done of a positive nature. Health Commissioner Dudley is inclined in a leisurely sort of way to punish the offenders, but cannot mar the dignity of the office by any signs of haste or aggressive energy, and Mayor Noonan, who has openly denounced the Lowell factories as unmitigated nuisances, is also willing to take his time about matters. The cases in the Court of Criminal Correction have dragged on their weary way for months now, the offenders having a decided advantage every day the decision is put off, as the penalties do not accrue until the court renders its decision. If it had not been for the energy of the North St. Louis association of interested citizens who engaged their own lawyer to represent the city, the cases might have collapsed before now.

BOARD OF HEALTH MEETING.

The Board of Health, two meetings ago, condemned one establishment as a nuisance and set four more for hearing on next Thursday, if nothing turns up before then to set them further back. When they do come up, the offenders will be given thirty days in which to abate their nuisances before they can be brought into court and fined. Then the usual appeals will be taken, and it will probably be three months at the present rate of procedure before they are brought to trial.

There are now the establishments of Flynn & Winters, J. B. Stark, Jos. Rapple, Fred Holste and Joseph P. Funk running along at the same old rate in spite of all that had been done to prevent them. They have been declared nuisances, but in such a kindly and considerate way that it has not disturbed them in the least. Every excuse for delay that they have scraped up has been accepted, and time gained for them thereby. The establishment of the necessary condemnatory facts has been finished long ago, and all that is being done now is to work the wondrous machine of the city Government and grind out legally established convictions and fines.

JIM HARDY'S CONTRACT.

The resolution on James Hardy, the Slop Contractor, will be acted upon to-day and a decision arrived at as to whether he shall continue to collect the city slops as he does or whether it shall be done at his expense by Inspector Cunningham, who keeps tab on the Merz contractors. The resolution was offered at the last meeting and Mr. Hardy, through his attorney Louis Steber, asked for time in which to prepare his defensive evidence, which would show that the Merz people were trying to force him to bring them more garbage than he was by law required to do. Exactly what his defense will be cannot be ascertained as Mr. Hardy maintains his customary clam-like reserve on the subject.

Mayor Noonan was seen in his office to-day. "I would like to speak with you about the Lowell nuisances," said the reporter.

"Well, go ahead."

"Will you take any action on them this afternoon in the Board of Health?"

"I don't know."

"The Health Commissioner says they won't come up unless they are brought out of the regular order. Will you bring them up?"

"No, I shall not interfere with the order of business; if they are not set for to-day we won't act on them."

"Can you state what you intend to do?"

"Can't tell till the meeting takes place."

"Have you anything to say further than has already been said?"

"No. Good-day."

It is safe to predict that if the Lowell nuisances are brought up this afternoon, it will be by some one other than His Honor, the Mayor.

THE DESTITUTE.

More Suffering Than There Has Been for Years—Donations.

"There is a much greater number of genuine and worthy applicants for charity this winter," said Capt. Matt Kieley of the Fourth District, "than there has been any winter before since I have been in the district. There is now on the books a list of 125 cases, and in most instances there are from three to seven children in each family. There were quite a number of contributions yesterday from charitably disposed people, but there are yet many families to be cared for in the district.

Every half hour through the day some unfortunate child or woman walked into the station and asked for food, fuel or clothing. The severe weather of the past week kept quite a number of people indoors who were in destitute circumstances, but unable to get to the station and tell the story of their sufferings.

John Dieterich, 3412 North Broadway, sent four pairs of shoes to the Fourth District yesterday for the worthy poor; Charles Kuhs, Fifteenth and Wright streets, sent in forty-five loaves of bread; Col. A. L. Rowe, General Manager of the Mississippi Glass-works, contributed forty loaves of bread; Emile Seibiner, 1422 Monroe street; F. W. Danne, 2502 North Tenth street; Mrs. E. Winkelman, 2502 Glasgow avenue; Mrs. Lizzie Kehoe, 816 Clinton street; Howsen Pritchard, 908 St. Louis avenue; Mrs. Kramer, 1940 Benton street, and a young lady who refused to give her name, all left donations of clothing. Sergt. Alvin Worcester was busy all day distributing the goods, but the calls were more numerous than the donations could meet.

Jeremiah White, colored, his mother, his wife and one child are living at 1910 North Eleventh street, sick, and in very destitute circumstances. The police report that this family is worthy of assistance.

Theresa Litte, a widow 45 years of age, is living at 3743 Marine avenue, with her five small children, sick and in a very destitute condition.

An unknown man sent a bundle of clothing and 50 cents to the Second District, to be divided among the poor of that district.

WANTED—Ten good cash-boys. Apply at office of the Famous Shoe & Clothing Co., 514 and 516 Washington avenue.

Work of Resurrectionists.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 18.—Much excitement was caused Saturday over the finding of six complete skeletons, minus three skulls, which have been sold to the Michigan Carbon Co., to be ground up for fertiliser. These were bought with a quantity of other bones from a Polish rag picker, who claims he bought them from an unknown Jew. The Coroner has been notified and detectives have been put upon the case. The opinion of the police is that an organized gang of ghouls is resurrecting them from the old French cemeteries here.

BOULEVARD PLANS.

They Will Be Discussed To-Night at a Citizens' Meeting.

CITY OFFICIALS WILL BE PRESENT TO GIVE EXPLANATIONS.

A Map of the Proposed System Hung up in the Meeting Hall—Papers Which Will Be Read—Some Changes in the Plans Proposed—Complaining About the Park Roads.

To-night's discussion of the boulevard system by prominent city officials and public men, at Occidental Hall, Thirty-Fourth and Olive street, is creating a great deal of interest. The meeting is under the auspices of St. Louis Council, Legion of Honor, many of whose members are property-holders along the line of the proposed system. President George Burnet of the Board of Public Improvements, went up to the hall this afternoon and superintended the hanging of a big ten-foot map of the streets, after which he outlined the proposed system of boulevards by pinning strands of black tape along the proposed route. He will open the discussion by explaining the system. Mr. M. J. Murphy, the Street Commissioner, follows him with a paper on the practical features. The Mayor was suffering from an incipient attack of la grippe and fears that he may be obliged to read his paper. After him will come Surveyor Julius Pitzman with a talk on the touchy subject of "Condemnation." The real estate agents' views will be outlined in Festus Wade's paper on "The System and its Effect on Real Estate Values." Ex.-Gov. E. O. Stanard will talk on "Evolution," not from a Darwinian standpoint, and Dr. R. M. King will take up the sanitary side of the question. The papers will all be short and full of facts. After the regular programme five minute speeches will be in order. An endeavor will be made to have Mr. Samuel C. Cupples, the originator of the system, come over and take part in the discussion. All the city officials and a number of prominent citizens have been invited, and the audience will without doubt be a most representative one.

To-morrow night's meeting of the Council, when the boulevard bill comes up for discussion, promises to be warm and exciting. The property holders on West Pine street are greatly incensed at the action of the Council in reporting unfavorably against their street as a part of the system. They have gotten up a unanimous petition and will send down a delegation to insist on a reconsideration of their claims.

Now comes the Washington avenue people who insist that their street shall also he made a boulevard west of Grand avenue. A street that has boulevards on either side is bound to have all the heavy hauling in the vicinity thrown on it. Mr. George W. Parker wrote a letter to President Burnet saying that the Washington Avenue Improvement Co. had appointed Messrs. Bond and Tuesley a committee to submit their claims before the Council. Mr. Burnet replied that their claim was a trifle late, especially as Delmar avenue was already favorably recommended. To-morrow night is their last chance, and very probably nothing will come of their tardy plea. Between the kicks from Washington and Florissant avenues and West Pine street the Councilmen's lot to-morrow night will not be a happy one.

One of the advantages of the Boulevard system will be thoroughly enjoyed by housekeepers. A provision of the ordinance says that no peddling shall be done on those streets. This will prevent the yelling hawkers and abolish effectually the fiends who ring the front door bell no less than fifty times in the course of the morning and ask to see the lady of the house. The ordinance says nothing against the man who buys old clothes the tramp who shovels snow off the sidewalks. Those twin tormentors can play with the door bells along the Boulevard without fear of molestation from the law.

Illegal, Like the Municipal.

The point made by Councilman William T. Anderson in urging his colleagues to throw the Municipal bill out of the Assembly, will be used by the attorneys of the Hotekeepers' Association in their fight on the Merz ordinance. The point was that the charter expressly forbade the Assembly from making a contract. The clause which the Council decided made the Municipal bill illegal, appears in both the Merz bill and the bill giving Charles Schweickhardt the right to build a restaurant in Forest Park. This clause is:

"The Board of Public Improvements is hereby authorized and directed to enter into a contract."

"I should like to see a court rule on this point," said ex-Commissioner R. E. McMath to-day. "I think it would be held that both these bills are illegal, on that ground."

Mr. Schweickhardt, by the way, has done nothing yet towards building the new restaurant. He has given Park Commissioner John B. Fechter the excuse that he wants to see how the suit now pending will turn out, but the impression prevails that he is not anxious to put up the new house so long as he can help it. It has to cost $15,000, and the building he has now is amply sufficient to accommodate all the custom he has at the park. His idea is to get a bill through the Assembly giving him an extension of time. According to the present ordinance, he must build the new restaurant before March 6 or forfeit his franchise.

A Waif.

Officer Sheehy came into the Mayor's office this morning with a tiny specimen of humanity and presented him to Sergt. McGrew together with a police report from the Third District Station. The report said the waif was an 11-year-old colored boy who had been found wandering about homeless and hungry on Third and Biddle streets, at an early hour this morning. When the Sergeant read "colored boy" he looked up. The chap was not exactly white and mournfully confessed an unfamiliarity with soap and water. He said his mother was a white women and his stepfather a negro. His origin was decidedly mixed up. The Sergeant examined him critically, felt his hair, rubbed the tip of his nose and looked down his collar to see if there was a black stripe down his back. After a thorough scrutiny he was pronounced a Caucasian and the police report amended to that effect. The little fellow was sent to the House of Refuge. His mother left his stepfather, Frank Lane, who lives in East Carondelet, and the latter treated the boy so cruelly, so the little fellow says, that he was obliged to run away. He crossed over on the ice on last Thursday, and has begged and slept around in ash-boxes ever since.

Skating in Hyde Park.

People living in the vicinity of Hyde Park sent in a petition to the Mayor asking that the ice on the pond in the park be swept and cleaned, as is done at Lafayette and Forest Park. The Mayor consulted with Park Commissioner Fechter and decided to give the North End skaters all the show they wanted. Hereafter the pond will be scraped and cleaned. Complaints have been received about the way the ponds are attended to at Forest and Benton Parks. The Park Commissioner was not prepared for a cold snap, but says he will look after the skaters' comfort from this time forward.

Repairing the Damage.

Street Superintendent Duffey spent yesterday supervising the filling in of the cave which was formed on Sixth and Olive streets last Thursday by the bursting of the water pipe. The earth around the pipes had never been packed properly and a hollow over 7 feet in diameter was washed out by the water forming a cave 5 feet beneath the surface of the street. The concrete bed beneath the granite saved the ground from caving in. Several hundred cubic feet of cinders were filled into the hole and securely packed. The work commenced late Saturday evening and was completed last night.

An Important Decision.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 18.—Judge Newman filed his opinion in the State Treasury cases with the Clerk of Dane County Circuit Court this morning. The decision is in favor of the State in every particular, giving all that the State claimed. The cases tried were one against E. C. McFetridge, State Treasurer, for the official term from 1889 to 1890, and one against H. B. Harshaw for the two years 1889-90. They were tried as test cases, involving all the points covered by all the cases from 1888 to 1891. The amount involved in the cases covered in his decision is about $850,000, and is for interest the treasurers have received on deposits and kept for their own use.

The Road Blameless.

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 18.—The story published by the Evening Herald Saturday last, stating that a rumor was in circulation to the effect that the Northern Pacific wreck on Friday last, in which Mrs. E. D. Andrews and her maid, Miss Wallace, lost their lives, was not due to a broken rail, but to the criminal negligence of some one connected with the road in giving the Andrews Opera Co. a condemned car, was unfounded. At the inquest held Saturday afternoon the jury returned a verdict completely exonerating the Northern Pacific Railway and its employes from any blame in the railroad horror.

ATTRACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

"She Stoops to Conquer" at the Grand—The Other Theaters.

That the wit and humor of Goldsmith as exhibited in "She Stoops to Conquer" are still as potent as when they overcame the critics of his time was amply demonstrated at the Grand Opera-house last evening. The quaint characterization, humorous incidents and bright sallies of the play were greeted with hearty laughter, and the fact that the audience was thoroughly entertained was manifest.

To the majority, perhaps, of the younger generation of play-goers this comedy is merely a literary classic, and its stage production has almost the effect of a new play. The work, of course, has much of the artificial quality characteristic of its time, but it has so much human nature and genuine comedy humor that its appeal to all time is irresistible. It is a comedy of both characters and manners, and its performance here therefore requires in the actors the intelligence and trained skill of the thorough artist. These possessions are not sufficiently proved in all the members of Mr. Robson's company. There is a lack of that finish in the performance which gives the perfect tone to old comedy. The players are not quite attuned to it, but the ensemble is excellent enough to guard against positive offense and to afford a most enjoyable result.

Mr. Robson gives a farcical touch to Tony Lumpkin, but the character is rounded out upon his model and his work is full of his own laugh-compelling humor. Young Malone was justified in failing in love with Mrs. Hardcastle, as represented by Mrs. Robson. The part was invested with personal attractiveness and vivacity, while her work was marked by careful and intelligent art. Miss Amy Busby's Miss Neville might have stepped from a canvas or served as a heroine of an old romance. She presented a quaint and charming picture of the girl of the last century and daintily embodied the author's conception in dress, manner and spirit. The Mrs. Hardcastle of Mrs. McKean was intelligently outlined and fairly sustained. Mr. Woodward's Hardcastle was a capable and pains-taking effort which perhaps did not bring out all the possibilities of the part but was praiseworthy, and Mr. Everham gave an excellent Sir Charles. Neither the Young Marlowe of Mr. Elwood nor the Hastings of Mr. Smith were up to the mark of finished comedy and the remainder of the cast may be lumped as fairly satisfactory.

Mr. Robson has treated the play with tender regard in giving it a worthy stage setting. The scenes were artistic illustrations of the play, reproducing the dress and surroundings of the times. It is a handsome production, which repays in bright and wholesome enjoyment all the attention the public may give it.

THE HAGAN—"U AND I."

At the Hagan "U and I," a satire on life in a New York flat, opened its engagement to a big house last night. The play is full of laughable situations and the company presenting it make the most of them. Tim Cronin, as O'Donovan Innes, is the leading fun-maker; Jerome Sykes, as Prof. John Ungerblatz, is a good second and Miss Minnie Miller, as Mlle. Vermicelli, also adds largely to the success of the performance. The musical and specialty features are bright and well rendered.

POPE'S—"PAUL KAUVAR."

Steele Mackaye's strongest melodrama, "Paul Kauvar," a thrilling story of the French Reign of Terror, is at Pope's this week. It is presented in almost as strong form as when first produced here some years ago, and drew crowded houses yesterday. Edward S. Snader as Paul Kauvar does excellent work. Miss Rosabel Knott makes an admirable Diane de Beaumont, E. R. Spencer is a strong Marquis de Vaux, and the general cast is most acceptable. The vivid scenic effects of the story are finely put on.

HAVLIN'S—"THE FAT MEN'S CLUB."

J. C. Stewart's company in the "Fat Men's Club" reappears at Havlin's this week, opening to full houses. The story is a conventional farce-comedy one, but with Stewart as Prof. Baton, a fat novitiate of the club, Chas. H. Ernest as Barnaby Peters, Lillie Allyn as Jemima Patterson, Georgie Lingard as Jemima Baton, and a good general support, the play goes with a rush. There is some bright new work introduced since its last appearance in St. Louis, which adds much to the fun of the story.

STANDARD—NELSON'S WORLD'S COMBINATION.

A first-class specialty and novelty show is always guaranteed by the Nelson combination, and that company's reappearance at the Standard this week is the signal for crowded houses. The programme includes bright acts by all the favorites of the Nelson company, and the marvelous acrobatic work of the seven Nelsons is the leading feature in a performance which has not a dull or second-class act in its entire programme. The closing farce, "All Deaf," brings down the house with its uproarious fun.

HONEYMOON TRIP.

The tour of Mr. Robson this season is a sort of honeymoon trip, as he and his handsome wife, who was May Waldron before her marriage, are still in the first flush of matrimony and the tender passion has been playing havoc in the company. The latest victims to it are Amy Busby, who plays Miss Neville so charmingly, and young Aubrey Boucicault, but they are not revelling in the full joys of love's young dream just now. Although mated they are separated, as young Boucicault had a dispute over a fine imposed upon him and left the company at Chicago last week. He went to New York and his bride remains with the company. The actor's lot is not always happy.

"THE RIVALS" AT THE OLYMPIC.

To-night "The Rivals" will be presented at the Olympic by Mr. Jefferson and his admirable company. The cast, in which Mr. James takes the place of the late Wm. Florence, promises a rare performance of the fine old comedy.

Safety in the Midst of Danger.

This would seem a contradiction—is so, in fact, to the eye. But experience has proved its possibility. Take the case of the individual who dwells in a malarious region. A robust constitution is no certain defense against the dreaded chills. What is? Recorded testimony, covering a period little short of half a century, proves that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is precisely this. This continent does not limit the field where the medicine has proved its efficacy. In South America, the Isthmus of Panama, Mexico, everywhere in fact where miasma-born disease takes on its most obstinate and formidable types, the Bitters is a recognized specific in illimitable demand, and prescribed by physicians of repute. Potent, too, is it in disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, and against that destroyer is grippe. It improves appetite and sleep, neutralizes rheumatism and kidney complaints.

Weather forecast for twenty-four hours, beginning at 8 a. m. to-day, for Missouri: Clearing; colder; north winds.

A slight barometric depression is central in Louisiana, from which point the pressure increases to Manitoba. This is causing northerly winds and much colder weather in the Upper Mississippi Valley and westward, resulting in a very severe cold wave throughout the Western States. The temperature is 40 deg. below zero in North Dakota and Western Minnesota; 20 deg. below in Nebraska and 10 deg. below in Kansas. In Northwest Missouri, and the temperature still falling. Along the front of the cold wave and north of the low area snow has fallen amounting to two or more inches in Eastern Indian Territory, Missouri and portions of Illinois. Farther south the precipitation has been in the form of rains. The Ohio River is rising from Cincinnati westward.

Weather forecast for St. Louis for thirty-six hours, ending at 5 p. m. Jan. 19: Snow, colder; northerly winds. Temperature will fall to zero by Tuesday morning.

THE Republican gerrymander of Ohio beats GERRY'S famous salamander. It is a comfort to know, however, that Mr. MCKINLEY'S advice was followed and "extreme partisanship" was not allowed to dictate the form of the new districts. THE Sabbatarian upheaval in Pittsburg will probably come to naught, just as other movements of this kind have done. Any attempt to enforce a statute relating to personal conduct which does not contain the will of a vast mnjority of the community must, of necessity, be futile. Personal liberty is too dear to free people who have won it by hard knocks to be lightly driven up at the bidding of a sect, however right the sect may be. The question of Sunday observance, like dram drinking, is something to be settled by the individual with his own conscience, and it is safe to say that in this country he will never allow anybody else to settle it for him beyond the point of protecting the rights of others.

The SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH will continue to publish the best Sunday paper against all competition. It pays more money for original articles by famous writers; it prints more news, foreign, domestic and local, and is better illustrated than any other Sunday paper in St. Louis.

A WORD TO SALOON MEN.

The honest saloon men who comply with the law regulating their business and pay their license have greater reason to protest against the conduct of Czar ZIEGENHEIN in nullifying the purpose of the law and abetting saloon-keepers in its evasion than any of their fellow citizens whose rights are thus violated.

They have cause to object to it upon the broad general ground of policy and the personal ground of injustice. Sound policy suggests to the saloon interests the avoidance of any course which discredits the business and arouses public antagonism towards it. The saloon exists by the sufferance of the people, who assume and exercise the right to impose certain regulations and conditions upon the traffic in alcoholic liquors. There is a large body of citizens opposed to the saloon and liquor traffic under any and all conditions, who eagerly seek opportunity to arouse public sentiment to the point of restricting it out of existence. The wisdom, therefore, of strict compliance with the law and a careful avoidance of public offense on the part of the saloon interests is manifest.

On the other hand, when the Collector so administers his office that some saloonkeepers are enabled to avoid paying licenses and escape the penalties for violating the law a gross injustice is done to the honest saloon men who meet all of the requirements of the law. The rascality and trickery to which disreputable dram-shop keepers resort, with the connivance of the Collector, to circumvent the dram-shop law inflict serious injury upon the liquor business. The saloon men should be the first to denounce such outrages upon the rights of the people and to demand faithful compliance with the statute.

If there are any grounds for a declaration of war against Chili, or even for sending a warlike ultimatum to the Government of that disturbed and distressed little Republic, we shall learn what they are from the official correspondence and reports accompanying the warlike message which our President is understood to be about to send in. It is not probable that either branch of Congress will be at all backward about authorizing and urging any hostile demonstration that may seem necessary to protect the honor and interests of the Republic. If there is any occasion for such a demonstration against Chili, it is a State secret, unknown to the mass of newspaper readers, its publication having been held back till now. If it turns out, however, that Mr. HARRISON is only working a cheap patriotic splurge with a view of getting ahead of BLAINE in the nomination race, the war-paint he is putting on will not be permitted to make the country ridiculous. The power to declare war rests with Congress, not with a White House candidate who imagines that war paint is popular.

PROBABLY one of the objects of the Administration in stirring up a war scare, if not war itself, is to distract public attention from the doings of the Reed Congress. The Democratic House has a rod in pickle for the men responsible for that lunatic mob, and the President is naturally averse to any exposures. Things will not be so pleasant and agreeable for him after the jobs perpetrated under the guidance of the autocratic Speaker are thoroughly investigated. A war kicks up a great dust, just the sort of a cover needed by men who want to get away without dropping too much of the swag.

THE meeting of utterly respectable gentlemen held in an upper chamber in New York the other day differs from another meeting held nearly nineteen hundred years ago in an upper chamber when men not so respectable waited for a message from on high. The difference between the two lies principally in the fact that in the modern instance the participants needed no light, having it all themselves. In the ancient the apostles acknowledged their sinfulness and prayed for guidance. We have great advantages in these better days.

THE discovery that the arches being put into the new High School building are faulty fully justifies the action of School Director BLAIR in insisting upon the appointment of a building inspector and the examination of school buildings. His work has brought out information of the greatest importance, which will save the High School from costly and dangerous bungling. The responsibility for this bad piece of work should be fixed and the whole matter of faulty school building thoroughly sifted.

THE Holman resolution was, as has been described, an outburst of the public conscience. It will not prevent the expenditure of money that is needed to maintain the honor or dignity of the country, but it does register the people's will that government partnerships with adventurers shall no longer be tolerated. In ridiculing economy and making it the subject of humorous speeches Republican members of the House are forging a few more nails for their coffins.

War a Last Resort.

From the New York WORLD.

A good many people besides naval officers seem to be bent upon our getting into a war with Chili. There are some politicians who think that Mr. Harrison's chances for a re-election would be improved by what Mr. Zachariah Chandler used to call "a little bloodletting." So far, however, as the facts thus far developed are concerned, there has yet appeared no reason why this country should make war on Chili to procure promotion for any officers or to advance any one's political prospects. The evidence taken is thus far ex parte, and it would be utterly wrong if this country should take so important a step as to declare war without first doing its part in the criminal trials about to begin in Chili—that is, by furnishing to the prosecuting officer of that country the witnesses whom it has in its service. War should be a last resort in our dealings with Chili, as it would be undoubtedly in our dealings with Great Britain.

No Kissing in Grip Time.

From the Philadelphia Record.

The announced discovery of the influenza bacillus, if it shall be verified on further investigation, will give intelligent direction both in the matter of prevention and cure. Dr. Pfeiffer, who announces the identification of the cause of grippe, says he "believes that the spectrum of persons suffering from influenza is the medium of contagion in that disease." If this be a fact, the path lies open to an effort for limitation upon the part of the whole community. Persons affected with the disease should spit into vessels containing a disinfecting preparation. All bed clothes, clothes or rags used about a sufferer, liable to infection, should be burned, or, when cleansed, soaked in a germ-destroying fluid. The germs may be conveyed from one person to another by means of a drinking cup, spoon or other utensil of common use, or even a kiss may carry contagion hid under the wing of love.

He Feels a Delicacy.

From the New York Commercial Advertiser.

President Harrison feels the same delicacy in sending over to Mr. Blaine's in the morning to ask how the latter is that Mr. Joram, the undertaker in "David Copperfield," felt in inquiring after his sick friend, Mr. Barkis. Mr. Joram said it was one of the drawbacks of his profession that he could not inquire after his friends' health without his motives being misunderstood.

A Scamper.

From the Springfield Republican.

"The reciprocity amendment is the little joker which is taking the tricks," says the New York Tribune. This admission that the one popular feature of the McKinley act is its freer trade feature is worth nothing. The Republican scamper to get off the platform of 1888 is something wonderful to behold.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

A Lady's Complaint.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Kindly permit me, through your columns, to call the attention of the Lindell Railroad Co. to the condition in which the sidewalks pertaining to their car-houses on Vandeventer, Fairfax and Finney avenues are kept—or, rather, left. Surely so public-spirited and energetic a man as the Lindell Railroad Co. is generally conceded to be cannot intend to wade through the slush now encumbering those sidewalks if he were aware of it. Is there no ordinance in St. Louis referring to the clearing of sidewalks?

VANDEVENTER AVENUE.

Abetting Fraud.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The opinion of the City Counselor to the effect that a device which, upon its face, is a transparent fraud, may be resorted to for the purpose of thwarting the will of a majority of the bona fide tax papers of a block opposed to the establishment of a nuisance in their midst, should be placed in the archives of the city to be handed down to posterity as a rare specimen of legal literature. The SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH furnished the most eloquent necessary to show the fallacy of such a one-sided opinion when it is said the law was plainly intended to invest the majority of the bona fide tax-payers with the power of deciding whether a saloon shall or shall not be located upon their block. The opinion of the City Counselor, made to order, and born of a necessity which knows no law, opens up possibilities for the saloon men which even they never dreamed of. Suppose Mr. Duffy owns fifty feet of ground on Washington avenue, between Grand and Cabanne, one of the most beautiful residence portions of the city, according to the opinion of the City Counselor, he has only to convey the back end of his lot to 300 people having no interest always to give the legal sanction. But the opinion will not be without legal results. The people of the West End are fairly aroused to the danger which threatens their beautiful homes, and at the next municipal election they will vote as one man to put out of power those who, at the bidding of the saloon interest, would deprive them of their dearest rights.

ARGUED IN COURT.

Suit on a Note Given by Manager West of the Chicago "Times."

THE UNION NATIONAL BANK TRYING TO COLLECT A $15,000 DEBT.

Cases Heard by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals To-Day—An Attorney From the Cherokee Nation Attracts Attention—The New Silver Half Dollars and the Counterfeiters—Federal News.

The West management of the Chicago Times was given something of an airing in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals this morning, the case heard being that of John N. Irwin et al. vs. the Union National Bank of Chicago. The "et al." in the case is Geo. G. Rand of Dubuque, Io., which is also the home of Irwin. West wanted to borrow $15,000, supposably for the Times, and informing Messrs. Irwin and Rand of his desire, they kindly accommodated him with their note for the amount on which to realize the sum. West had no difficulty in raising the money, the Union National Bank of Chicago having all the faith in the world in Irwin and Rand, even if they didn't take much stock in West. In time the note became due and Mr. West not having $15,000 at hand asked for an extension, which was readily granted. When maturity day came again Mr. West was under a criminal indictment for overissuing Chicago Times stock and other frauds in connection with his management of the paper and the bank thought it about time to collect its $15,000. Mr. West was in no condition to pay it and the bank called the original makers, Irwin and Rand. They claimed that they were not consulted when the extension was granted and did not sanction it, and that their responsibility ceased with the maturity of the note as originally drawn. They gave the note only as a matter of accommodation, and expected West to take it up when it became due, as he was well able to do at the time. The bank sued Irwin and Rand in the United States Circuit Court of Iowa and got judgment for the amount with interest. The defendants then took an appeal and became the plaintiffs in the case heard by the Court of Appeals today. Messrs. James H. Anderson and James C. Davis of Dubuque represented Irwin and Rand and Mr. W. J. Roberts, also of Dubuque, appeared for the bank. Oral arguments were made, and the case taken under advisement.

OTHER CASES.

The second case on the docket this morning, Michael Scanlan et al. vs. Lyman F. Hodges et al., an appeal from Minnesota, was passed down, and the next case, namely the appeal of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad from a verdict rendered in the United States Circuit Court of Indian Territory against the road and in favor of John O'Loughlin taken up. It appears that the railroad company's cars ran over and killed one of O'Loughlin's mules in the Indian Territory ten years ago. O'Loughlin sued the railroad company and got judgment for $300, the alleged value of the mule with interest, damages, costs, etc. The railroad company took an appeal, and briefs were submitted in the case to-day. Mr. O'Loughlin's counsel was Mr. S. B. Dawes of Muscogee, Cherokee Nation, and the young gentleman attracted a good deal of attention with his long black hair and cowboy hat, the latter occupying a conspicuous position on a table at the attorney's side. Mr. E. D. Kenna of this city represented the railroad company.

United States District Court.

In the United States District Court this morning Judge Thayer overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of the United States vs. Frank Shapleigh and granted the plaintiff thirty days in which to file a bill of exceptions. Mr. Shapleigh was interested in a Government contract and was charged with making fraudulent vouchers, but the case was decided in favor of the Government. He moved for a new trial and it was this motion that was overruled this morning.

Lookout for Gilded Half-Dollars.

Mr. Wm. J. Burns of the Government Service thinks that the new silver half dollars just issued from the mint and bearing the date of 1892 will be extensively gilded by counterfeiters and that many of the gilded coins will be passed as $10 gold pieces. The coins are of the same size and the designs on them are very much alike, each having an eagle on one side and a goddess of liberty head on the other. The reading is, of course, somewhat different, but it isn't everyone who takes the time and trouble to examine the reading on a coin when it is offered to him in business. In the old half-dollar the eagle's wings are only half extended, while Liberty is represented on the reverse side by a long-robed female in a sitting posture instead of by a woman's head alone, in new old issue.

Every Dollar Found.

In the accident which occurred in the United States Sub-Treasury vault last Saturday, some twenty of the 1,000 bags of silver dollars that toppled over and fell on the floor were burst open and the contents spilled in every direction. The loose coins were gathered up yesterday, Gen. Edwards being no longer in charge of the office, and were counted to-day. Every one of the 20,000 coins was there and they have since been placed in new sacks, with 1,000 coins to a sack, and returned to the vault. All the other sacks that fell have been recounted and stacked up again in two long rows as they were before the accident, but the stacking this time was very carefully done so that there is not likely to be a recurrence of Saturday's accident.

A LION'S JEALOUSY.

The Brute Tears to Pieces Its Master's Young Wife.

SILVER CITY, N. M., Jan. 18.—A most peculiar instance of jealousy in an animal is reported from a ranch up in the range northwest of this city. A Mexican named Juan Lopez some years ago caught a young mountain lion and raised it as a pet. He had the animal completely under subjugation and it was as docile with him as a house cat. The lion is now 4 years old and is full grown, but it has always been accustomed to sleep at the foot of the bed of its master and has followed him like a dog when he went around the place. He had it trained for hunting and it was always with him, except when he came to town. It had never shown any bad disposition when with other people and would allow visitors to fondle and pet it.

Lopez recently fell a victim to the charms of one of the mountain senoritas. The girl was brought home to the cabin of Lopez and her first move was to insist that the lion should be made to sleepout of the house, as she was afraid of the animal. Lopez assented to her wishes and built a house for his pet near the door of the cabin. When he attempted to make the animal go in it that night the brute was for the first time disposed to rebel against the wishes of its master, and the result was that it received a whipping. It went sullenly into the box, but all night long the Mexican and his bride could hear its low growls. Next morning the animal slunk into the house and curled up in a corner, repulsing the caresses of its master. It was sullen all day, but the bride noticed that it watched her constantly and she became so nervous that she insisted that her husband should get rid of the big lion. He promised to do so as soon as possible. He told her that he would take it to town in a few days and sell it. The second night it went to its accustomed place outside with little opposition and next morning Lopez started to town to find a purchaser for his pet. He left the animal at home and told his wife to pay no attention to it but go about her work as if it was not in the house.

Lopez had no difficulty in finding a purchaser for his lion and at 5 o'clock in the evening started home, pretty well intoxicated with mescal and elated at the fact that he was to get 100 pesos for his pet, which he had estimated to be worth only about 25. He arrived home after dark and was surprised to see no light as he approached the house, as he supposed that his wife would be ready with supper for him. He entered the place, but it was so dark that he could distinguish nothing, and as he groped about he stumbled over something on the floor which gave to his pressure. Stooping down he discovered that the object was a woman's body and felt that blood had flowed over the floor in such quantities that the place seemed to be literally saturated. He quickly struck a light and was horrified at the sight that met his gaze.

The young wife had been torn to pieces by the savage brute, which had evidently looked upon her as the cause of its disgrace. The struggle could not have been long, as the marks of the teeth showed that the lion had jumped upon her back and broken her neck at the first blow. It then had torn the victim to shreds, the limbs being severed from the body and the floor covered with bleeding remains which had been dragged about and shaken as a cat treats a rat. Part of the breast had been torn away and the face so disfigured that it was unrecognizable.

The animal after completing its bloody work had fled to the mountains and has not since been seen. Lopez hurried to the nearest neighbor and the terrible story soon spread. The young husband refused to be comforted. His grief was so great that he finally became insane and had to be confined to prevent him from taking his life.

BLIZZARD WEATHER.

Twenty Below Zero the Prevailing Figure in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 18.—It is still very cold throughout the Northwest. Last night the weather bureau reported 21 below here. The temperature throughout the State ranges from 15 to 40 below, with an occasional spot reported colder even than that. In South Dakota the cold is also very intense. At Aberdeen the thermometers registered from 32 to 40 below. Similar reports come from North Dakota. The coldest weather here is over in Manitoba and Northwest Territory, where it is from 5 to 20 deg. lower than in this State.

ALONG THE KAW.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 18.—The extreme cold weather that was predicted for this vicinity for to-day did not materialize to the degree expected. At 6 o'clock this morning the mercury marked 2 degrees below zero. The snowstorm, which lasted for twenty-four hours, ceased at noon. The fall of snow was slight and did not delay incoming trains more than twenty minutes. Dispatches from Kansas and Missouri state that the weather is the most severe of the season. In some sections the wind is blowing a gale, accompanied by blinding snow. The dispatches fail to state, however, that the storm has yet delayed trains or caused any serious troubles.

SNOW IN IOWA.

BURLINGTON, Io., Jan. 18.—Local officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy reported snow falling heavily all along the lines in Central and Western Iowa. The wind is from the northwest, and it is rapidly growing colder. It is feared trains will be delayed by the snow, which is drifting badly.

TWENTY BELOW.

BOONE, Io., Jan. 18.—A cold wave struck this region last night, and the mercury went down to 28 degrees below zero before daylight this morning.

Down to Zero.

Observer Hammon of the Weather Bureau expects the temperature in St. Louis to go down to zero to-night. The lowest this morning was 11 degs. above zero, but it was that cold all forenoon, and the mercury is gradually going down this afternoon. This morning's reports from other places showed that it was snowing pretty much all over Missouri, in Eastern Kansas, and pretty generally in Illinois, and was beginning or threatening throughout Ohio and Indiana and in the lake region. It was raining south of the Ohio River and also as far east as Washington City, although the rain at the latter place was turning to sleet. It was also snowing in New York, the temperature there being 30 above zero. At Chicago it was 22 above, but getting colder, at Kansas City, 2 below; at Omaha, 14 below and at Keokuk, 4 below. The coldest in Missouri was 12 below in the northwestern portion of the State. About three inches of snow has fallen in St. Louis since last night, and it is still snowing.

The coldest weather in the United States last night was 40 deg. below zero, in the northern part of Minnesota and North Dakota. The coldest weather ever recorded by the United States Signal Service in this country, outside of Alaska, was 63.05 below zero at Poplar River Agency several winters ago.

TRAINS NOT DELAYED.

While the snow storm appears to be general throughout this region, as far west as Nebraska, little inconvenience has thus far been experienced by the traveling public. At the Missouri Pacific offices all trains were reported on time, save one in Nebraska, which is delayed by drifted snow in a deep cut. In Supt. Dickinson's office it was stated that the snow was so light and dry that it was readily moved by the pilots of the engines. There is little wind, hence there is no drifting to amount to anything. The opinion was expressed, that if the temperature and atmospheric conditions remained as at present little delay would be experienced. It was expected that trains moving through Nebraska would be got through to-night. In the Wabash offices, Chief Clerk Logan, Assistant to Manager Hayes, said that no difficulties had been encountered in operating trains, and that all trains were reported about on time. There appeared, however, to be a feeling of apprehension, should the storm last all day, that trouble might be experienced to-night.

Down at the Union Depot all trains came in with about the usual promptness. One or two of the Eastern connections were a trifle late, but the delay was due to local causes, other than snow. All the trains will arrive and depart on time to-night; whether they will or not in the morning is another thing.

On all roads snow plows were got out and preparations made for a prolonged battle with the snow. The reports from the Signal Service Bureau were anything but reassuring, and preparations were made to put large gangs of shovelers out.

FIRES.

The Business Part of a Nebraska Town Swept Away.

ORLEANS, Neb., Jan. 18.—The entire business portion of this town was destroyed by fire yesterday. The flames started in the jewelry store of Frank Bristol, and the post-office and all the mails, R. D. Treat's drug store, C. A. Dole's, general merchandise; Render's meat market, Crowley's harness shop, hotel, an elevator containing 3,000 bushels of wheat were destroyed. Many citizens and firemen were badly frozen. The loss will amount to $40,000, with but nominal insurance.

BIG BLAZE AT KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 18.—The Deardorff Building on Main street was entirely destroyed by fire last night, involving a loss of $150,000. The building was occupied by Browning, King & Co., A. D. Mills Jewelry Co., and the Eaton Crockery Co. The building was valued at $60,000, and was insured for $40,000. Browning, King & Co. escaped with a loss of only $30,000 by reason of the fact that most of their stock had been removed to their new store.

GRIST MILL BURNED.

PALATINE, Ill., Jan. 18.—Batterman, Ost & Co.'s grist, planing and flax mill was destroyed by fire yesterday. The firemen saved the house of one of the proprietors, Charles Ost, whose loss with that of his partners will be $15,000 to $18,000, there being no insurance. For a time the whole town was in danger of being destroyed. Several of the buildings near by caught fire, but the blaze was extinguished before much damage was done.

TARKIO COLLEGE.

TARKIO, Mo., Jan. 18.—Tarkio College was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday. The College authorities have secured the Auditorium building here, and will hold classes in it until the College is rebuilt.

FIRE IN A ROLLING MILL.

CHAMPION, Neb., Jan. 18.—The large roller mills at this place were destroyed by fire yesterday. It is not known how the flames were started. The loss will be $25,000; insurance, $5,000.

FEARS FOUL PLAY.

A. C. Rozier Thinks His Friend, Wm. J. Sproule, Was Murdered.

THE BODY FOUND FROZEN IN THE ICE ON THE RIVER.

The Young Man Said to Have Had Plenty of Money Saturday Night—Only $6.85 Found in His Pockets—Where He Was on the Fatal Night—Will Be Investigated.

A story told to the Coroner this morning gives reason to suspect foul play in the death of William J. Sproule, whose body was found buried in the ice of the river yesterday morning at the foot of Biddle street. Sproule was a single man, 26 years of age, and was employed as salesman in the store of the Samuel C. Davis Dry Goods Co., Broadway and Washington avenue. He was boarding with a friend at 1426 Lucas place. He drew his salary of $25 last Saturday evening, and his friends at the store and at his boarding-house did not see him again until yesterday when they identified his dead body at the Morgue.

FINDING OF THE BODY.

Yesterday morning shortly after 10 o'clock, Mr. J. Skinner, who lives at 221 South Leffingwell avenue, was walking along the Levee and about the foot of Biddle street noticed something odd-looking sticking out of the ice about one hundred and fifty feet from shore. On closer observation he saw it was a man's head and shoulders. The arms were outspread and frozen to the ice around. Mr. Skinner immediately notified the police and a detachment of men under Capt. Joyce with axes and ropes hurried down to the river. The ice was thin and rotten for some distance from shore because of a sewer, which enters near there, but the body was finally reached. It was found necessary to literally chop the body from the ice in which it was frozen. After half an hour of work the task was accomplished and the body taken ashore.

In the vest pocket was a note book marked "Wm. J. Sproule, S. C. Davis & Co." In the other pockets were some letters addressed to him, $6.85 in money and some small articles of jewelry.

His cousin, Andrew Sproule, of the same establishment, identified the remains at the morgue and said that it was probably a spirit of adventure that led him to try to cross on the ice, so that he might tell his parents, who live in Ireland, about it.

The remains showed signs of a struggle, and it was evident the young man made an effort to save his life.

HIS FRIEND'S STORY.

The finding of the body was mentioned in the daily papers this morning, and A. C. Rozier of 1426 Lucas avenue, who roomed with Sproule, read the notice and called on the Coroner. He said he was worried about the absence of his room-mate Saturday night and went around town looking for him. He had reasons for this, he said.

"Sproule told me he received $100 from his parents in County Donegal, Ireland, last week and showed me the money," said Rozier this morning. "I was afraid he would spend the money and when he did not show up at the house Saturday evening I went out to look for him. He had drawn $25 from the store and must have had $125 at supper time Saturday evening. Only $6.85 was found in his pockets yesterday. I cannot believe he was drowned accidentally. In my search last night I learned that Sproule was in White Carroll's saloon on Thirteenth and Pine streets about 9:30 o'clock last night very drunk, and in the company of a man called 'Romeo,' a piano-player in Mme. Minnie Wilson's house of ill-repute at 1220 Pine street. Sproule, I learned, was spending money freely, and showing it every time he paid for a drink. That was the last seen of him. Mr. J. M. Welsh, who lives in our house, says he met Sproule on Fourteenth and Pine streets about 9 o'clock and Sproule asked him to take a drink, but he was so drunk at the time Welsh refused to go to a saloon with him. Sproule then begged Welsh to lend him a knife or revolver, but when asked what he wanted with a weapon, he refused to say. Welsh tried to take Sproule home, but he resisted and Welsh left him when he had made him almost fighting angry. As far as I can learn, Sproule was seen in White Carroll's saloon after Welsh left him. Sproule may have wanted a revolver or knife to commit suicide with, but I think he was robbed of his money and wanted a weapon with the intention of returning to the place where he was robbed and shooting some one. I do not think he walked to the river alone or that he went there with the intention of committing suicide."

Andrew Sproule of 2539 Pine street, a cousin of deceased, said yesterday he thought Sproule went to the river Saturday evening intending to walk across on the ice so that the parents in his next letter to them that he had crossed the big river on the ice.

Sproule must have gone to the river Saturday night as the water was frozen about his body and arms and the temperature Saturday afternoon and yesterday morning was not low enough to congeal the water to the thickness found by the police. The police could find no one about the foot of Biddle street who had heard shouts for help during the night. An inquest will be held this afternoon and the Coroner will if possible have "Romeo" testify. Mr. Rozier is still continuing his investigation.

THE BARKEEPER'S STORY.

The barkeeper at White Carroll's saloon on Thirteenth and Pine streets, said that Sproule came to that place early Saturday evening and took a number of drinks, after which he left with a Hungarian piano player called "Romeo." To a POST-DISPATCH reporter he said: "Sproule visited this place frequently and was a good patron of the house. I am positive he had no more than $7 or $8 when he left here with Romeo. They went to Minnie Wilson's house at 1219 Pine street, and that was the last I saw of Sproule. I went to supper about the time they left and later I was joined by Romeo, who told me that he had left Sproule at Wilson's."

WHAT THE WOMEN SAY.

The proprietress of the Wilson house and the girl "Curly," whom the deceased called on Saturday evening said Sproule did not leave with Romeo. "He came here about 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening and seemed to be under the influence of liquor," said the girl. "He came in with Romeo, but did not go away with him. He threw his money about and I made him put it in his pocket. I am positive the amount was $7. He remained only a few minutes and then went away."

In reply to a question the proprietress of the places said that Romeo formerly presided at the piano in her house, but had quit her employ some months ago. She did not believe that the unfortunate man had met with foul play. "He had but $7," she said, "and I understand from the papers that he had $6.85 with him when he was found."

LABOR NEWS.

Trouble on the Aransas Pass Road Continues—Strike News.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 18.—The proposed strike of the employes of the lines connected with Aransas Pass, rather than handle that road's through business, still hangs fire. While some freight of this character has been handled, it by no means indicates that trouble will be averted. The local switchmen of the International & Great Northern and Southern Pacific have both decided to switch Aransas Pass freight, except upon concerted action by all employes to the contrary.

Last night the Aransas Pass tendered the Southern Pacific a car, which was switched and made up with a west-bound train. This morning the Southern Pacific trainmen refused to take out the train unless the Aransas Pass car was cut off. This was done and the train departed. The Superintendent of the road will arrive to-morrow and look into the status of affairs. Further trouble may be precipitated at any hour. Local business men are moving to assist in settling the strike on the Aransas Pass and to prevent a spread of the trouble.

STREET RAILWAYS TIE UP.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 18.—The Pittsburg, Allegheny & Manchester Electric Street Railway is still tied up. No attempt was made to run cars on any of the branches to-day, and all is quiet. The police are in charge of the company's sheds, and the strikers are keeping at a respectful distance. Trouble is feared, however, if the company starts their cars with non-union men, as the feeling among the strikers is very bitter. To-day the strikers' committee presented a new proposition to the company demanding twelve hours and $2.25 per day, 20 cents per hour for extra trips on Saturdays and holidays, forty minutes for meals and the recognition of the Union. It is probable an attempt will be made to open the road this evening.

WITH NON-UNION MEN.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18.—A. B. McRae, who has had much experience in managing stevedores in New York, Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit, is in this city. He says he has about concluded contracts with all of the lake freight lines to manage their loading and unloading. He says the managers are getting tired of being hampered by the Stevedores' Union, and that he proposes to conduct the business with non-union men. He says he is also conferring with the traffic managers of several railroads having dock frontage to manage their freight loading and transferring.

ANXIOUS TO QUIT.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 18.—In an interview last night with Grand Chief Ramsey of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, who is here to investigate the dismissal of several men from the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia's service, he stated that if the road did not stop the warfare against the men, he would block everything. The engineers and other railroad men, he says, are only too anxious to quit.

ST. LOUIS SKETCHES.

Adversity Had Not Dulled His Sense of Humor—Other Stories.

It was after midnight last night and a poor, miserable looking tramp stood under the shelter of the big granite building on Fourth and Market streets. The snow had been falling steadily for about two hours and a little knot of belated theater-goers were waiting for the market street owl car. The tramp went through the crowd and collected about 50 cents without much trouble and had retired into the doorway smoking the end of a contributed cigar.

The night sergeant and a police officer came along and spied the tramp.

"Got a place to sleep?" asked the policeman grumly, as the sergeant stood by and waited.

"Oh, I suppose I have," airily answered the tramp.

"Well, you'd better be going there quick."

The tramp ignored the policeman and went up to the sergeant and said:

"Sergeant, can I ask you just one question?"

"Yes; go ahead, but be quick about it."

"I simply wanted to know did you ever see as heavy a snowfall as this before?"

Then he humped himself up with a chuckle and went to the beanery and bought a lunch.

CHIEF HARRIGAN'S DRIVING.

It is said to be a fact that neither love nor money will now induce Col. Dave Caruth to take a drive with Chief of Police Harrigan in the latter's buggy when the Chief holds the ribbons. Col. Caruth is a Kentuckian, and should have a "penchant" for fast driving, but it appears that he has not, or at least not when the Chief is the driver. The Colonel's unwillingness to accompany the Chief on a drive dates back, it is said, to a certain Democratic barbecue, which both gentlemen attended. When ready to leave Col. Caruth accepted Chief Harrigan's invitation to a seat in the chief's buggy for the homeward trip. What perils were encountered on that journey, or what tragedy narrowly averted, will never be known, but some dark shade of death escape left its impression on the Colonel's mind. Shortly after that drive Col. Caruth one afternoon announced to Secretary Paschall of the Police Board that he was going out to the base ball game.

"So is the Chief," said Mr. Paschall, "suppose you go out with him in the buggy."

Col. Caruth shuddered audibly.

"I will not," said he. I had as soon ride with the Devil driving! You tell Harrigan that he will never get me alongside of him behind that horse of his. The street cars are good enough for me, and so is walking rather than trust my neck to Harrigan."

HAD HIS REVENGE.

The car was full and more, for several male hogs were seated while half a dozen women hung to the straps. The conductor squeezed his way from the rear to the forward end of the car and began ringing up fares. By and bye there was a lull in the ringing and the shink, chink of nickels was heard. The process continued across and back a time that the passengers craned their necks and looked at the conductor, who was piling up the dull little coins in the lap of a flashily dressed woman who was growing very red in the face.

"Look here, Conductor," she expostulated. "I don't want ten pounds of nickels."

"Sorry, madam," returned the conductor, "can't do any better. There you are, nine ninety-five (ching)! Fares, please."

"Young man, take these nickels back," gasped the woman. "I believe I have a dime in my pocketbook."

"Sorry, madam; can't stop now. If you ride up to the company's office you can get them changed. Fares, please."

And the conductor calmly went down the line ringing up fares, while the woman sputtered and threatened to report him. She sat looking at her nickels for a minute or so, while the passengers snickered, and one old gentleman said that it was an outrage. The old gentleman grew righteously indignant and step

SHE WAS POISONED.

Carlyle W. Harris on Trial for the Murder of His Wife.

STORY OF THE DEATH OF HELEN POTTS, HIS SCHOOLGIRL WIFE.

They Were Wedded in Secret—A Wife Was in the Way of the Medical Student's Ambition—Facts That Will Be Shown at the Trial—Appearance of the Prisoner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The trial of Carlyle W. Harris, who is charged with the murder of his young wife by means of poison was resumed to-day before Recorder Smyth. The case attracts great attention, because of the social standing of the actors in the tragedy, the peculiar features of the crime and the fact that so large a number of medical experts will testify. On Feb. 1 of last year, Miss Helen Neilson Potts, the daughter of George Potts, a rich railroad contractor living in Ocean Grove, N. J., died in Mrs. Comstock's Finishing School at No. 35 West Fortieth street. She was a beautiful dark-haired girl of 19. One of her frequent visitors at the school was Carlyle W. Harris, a medical student in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and who lived with his grandfather, Dr. B. W. McCready, at No. 28 East Seventeenth street.

The Coroner's investigation showed that Miss Potts had died from opium poisoning, which aggravated heart trouble, from which she was suffering. The night before, she had taken a pill which Harris had prescribed for her. Each pill contained quinine and one-sixth of a grain of morphine. The prescription was made out on Jan. 20. Harris had taken it to Ewan McIntyre & Son, druggists, at Fifty-sixth street and Sixth avenue, and had it filled himself. He gave four of the six capsules to Miss Potts and kept two himself. The next day he went to Old Point Comfort.

HER LAST SLEEP.

On the night before her death Miss Potts fell into a heavy stupor. The most rigorous treatment did not revive her. She died at 11 o'clock the following day. She had told the girls about taking the pills and of the dreams she had. Harris readily admitted the prescription and the giving of the pills to Miss Potts. He said that he had retained the two pills simply as a matter of precaution. For days there was much talk, but no satisfactory explanation was brought forward.

In the course of two months these additional facts came to light: It was ascertained that a year before her death, on Feb. 9, 1890, Carlyle W. Harris and Helen Potts were secretly married under different names by Alderman W. F. Kinckhoff of the Seventeenth ward. His name was given as Charles Harris, while Miss Potts' name was given as Helen Neilson.

During that summer Harris ran a clubhouse in Asbury Park, where there was gambling and drinking. He is now under indictment on that charge. It was not until the August following the marriage that Mrs. Potts learned of the secret marriage. She urged Harris to have a public ceremony performed. He said that it would not be wise. He wanted to wait until after his graduation. About that time his club troubles caused Mrs. Potts to be informed of his.

DENIED THE MARRIAGE.

In July, 1890, Miss Potts had gone to Scranton, Pa., to visit her uncle, Dr. Treverton, on July 26 Dr. Treverton wrote to Harris saying that Miss Potts was in a critical condition and that he was to blame. Dr. Treverton demanded money for caring for the young woman. Previously Harris had visited Miss Potts at Scranton and had told the doctor that she was not his wife.

Mrs. Potts went to see her daughter at Scranton. The daughter told her then that she was married to Harris and that the young husband had performed the operation from which she was suffering. That was in June.

When Miss Potts recovered they came to New York. Then Mrs. Potts urged an open marriage, but Harris objected. He asked that the time for recognizing his wife be postponed for two months. Finally he agreed to marry his wife publicly on Feb. 8. The young woman died just a week before that date.

Then Mrs. Potts remembered many things. She remembered how Harris had refused her offer to send them to Europe. And one thing she remembered more than all, that after his marriage Harris had received a letter from a rich society girl offering him her heart and fortune. Mrs. Potts made an affidavit to these facts, together with a conversation she had with Harris after the young woman's death. Then Harris told her that the druggists had made a mistake. He showed her the capsules he had kept, and directed her attention to the carefully written students' prescription, which he had had filled himself.

These in brief form are the most important facts upon which the prosecution of Carlyle W. Harris and his subsequent indictment for murder in the first degree were made.

THEORY OF THE PROSECUTION.

The marriage is not denied. Harris admitted it directly it became public. And in this connection the prosecution will prove that the young man prided himself upon his conquests of women. Having established this theory the prosecution will be developed. It is that the marriage was a boyish folly which Harris never expected would become known. When the mother convinced him that he must acknowledge his wife he resolved that he would do no such thing. He had tired of her. His treatment during her illness showed that. He was convinced that his whole career would be ruined. The rich woman who offered herself to him might have entered into the calculations.

He resolved to do away with his wife. According to the prosecution, this was to him an easy matter. He resolved upon opium poisoning. Apparently he took every precaution. The prescription which he had filled is recognized by physicians as a most excellent one. He was careful to make out the prescription and had it filled himself.

This, so holds the prosecution, was his fatal blunder. In its reasoning, the fact that he had the capsules in his possession is the most damning thing against him. The prosecution doesn't believe that the one-sixth of a grain of morphine in the capsule caused Miss Potts' death. They believe that Harris took the quinine out of one of the capsules and substituted morphine, five grains at the very least, which could be done in twenty seconds. Assistant District Attorney Wellman will fill a capsule before the jury.

THE PRISONER.

There is a long list of witnesses, among them many medical experts. The prisoner is tall and well-formed, and wears an air of refinement. His face is rather square, with a broad forehead. He has a strong jaw and a good chin. His mouth is sensual. His lips are coarse and thick. A newly-grown mustache half covers them. He has a good nose. His eyes are deep sunken and concealed by eye-glasses. His forehead is his best feature. His dark hair is parted in the middle and brushed back smoothly. He wears a well-cut suit of black and patent-leather shoes. The black silk four-in-hand tie and the general air of gentility in his dress makes him look like a young society man in mourning. His face is very white, but excitement makes it turn pink. His mother is his constant and close companion in court.

If out of order, use BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Had No Razor.

In reference to the assault made by John C. McCoy upon George B. Webster in the Commercial Building on Saturday last, Frank F. Scott, the proprietor of the barber shop in that building, said: "There is one part of Mr. Webster's statement that I desire to correct. I did not threaten McCoy with a razor, nor did I pursue him into the street. At the time that the fracas occurred I was cutting a customer's hair, and had no razor in my hand. In company with all who were in the shop at the time I rushed out into the hall and saw that Webster was being terribly beaten. When we thought that matters had proceeded far enough, several of us stepped up to McCoy and told him that he must desist. He did so, and went down stairs. There was no razor drawn by anyone."

Mariage of Miss Judy and Mr. Price in Ohio—Schmidt-Gaisser Nuptials.

Miss Stella L. Judy was married to J. L. Price last Thursday at the residence of her father, Mr. A. Judy of Plattsburg, O. The bride, a beautiful young woman, is well known in St. Louis, where she has numerous friends, being a sister of Mrs. C. F. Beardsley and Mr. W. H. Judy of this city. She was beautifully attired in white silk.

As the wedding march was struck up her little nephew, Herbie Beardsley, and niece, Stella Porter, went in advance to the spacious parlors, strewing the way with flowers. The bridal pair were married beneath a handsome floral horseshoe. Nearly one hundred guests sat down to the bridal dinner, it being quite a society event. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents, among which were a handsome silver tea service and silver service from the bride's brother, W. H. Judy of St. Louis; a beautiful onyx clock from J. T. Farrell and some beautiful pieces of silver ware from Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Beardsley and Mrs. W. W. Judy of St. Louis, besides a host of handsome and useful presents from friends in Ohio. The happy pair took the train soon after the marriage ceremony for a trip to the Eastern cities and will return about the first of February.

Schmidt—Gaisser.

Mr. William F. Schmidt, a well-known North St. Louisan, and Miss Mary Gaisser of Evansville, Ind., were married last Thursday evening at 3521 North Jefferson avenue, which will be their future home. After the ceremony a reception was held at North St. Louis Turner Hall, which was attended by a number of the happy couple's friends.

FAXSON'S CALLEES.

A Number of Petty Offenders Served With Justice This Morning.

Albert Williams and George Turner, two young Levee negroes, stepped out of the cage behind the Second District Police Court at the sound of their names, and Charles Fetz, a well-known lodging-house character, came forward to prosecute them for disturbing his peace. The old fellow hobbled along with the aid of a cane. His clothes seemed as old as himself. Fitz was the last man in the world to fall a victim to the highwaymen, for he has never slept in any other place than the police station or the cheap lodging-house for years. But he fell, and fell hard, for Officers Lee and Sonsett picked him up from a snowy bed at 12 o'clock last night at second and Morgan streets. The old man said two negroes knocked him down and took his money. The officers saw Williams and Turner vanishing in the distance and took after them. McHenry fired several shots at Williams and finally captured him, while Sonsett and Lee corralled Turner. The old man took the stand and testified that he saw Williams take his money and that Williams also beat him on the street. The prisoner was fined $15. Turner was discharged.

Mr. Patrick Dwyer, the foreman of the Union Sand Co., whose barge is at the foot of Carr street and not far from the foot-path over the river, attempted to put Beverly Allen, a big colored man, off the barge Saturday at 1 o'clock. Mr. Dwyer alleged that Allen and a crowd were raising a disturbance and he endeavored to get rid of them. One witness testified that Dwyer struck Allen, but Dwyer denied that he had used unnecessary force. Judge Fauson said that Dwyer should not be so harsh in fulfilling his duties and discharged Allen, because he was not accused of trespassing, but of disturbing the peace. Cross charges had been preferred and Mr. Dwyer's case was continued until Wednesday to enable him to prove that he did not strike Allen.

Charles Buckley and Mary Welton were found by officers Sheahan and McCrea on the third floor of a vacant house at 1017 Morgan street, and the pair were arrested for trespassing. There was not a particle of furniture in the house, but Mary claimed that she was not regularly put out, and she was discharged. Charles could not make the same excuse and he was fined $10, which will furnish warm apartments until after the cold spell.

Sam Mace was fined $15 for idling. Officers Sheahan, McCrea and Gaffney arrested him for idling at Lightstone's saloon, Eleventh and Franklin avenue. Alex Lightstone alleged that Mace had made their saloon his headquarters for a year. Last Thursday an overcoat and a watch belonging to Lightstone were stolen and a coat, the property of Mace. The officers arrested Mace on suspicion of the burglary, but he vigorously denied the charge. He lost a day's freedom from work was proven and he got a $15 fine.

PERIL AND SUFFERING.

A Gang of Water-Works Laborers Pass a Miserable Night.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18.—Eleven men employed on the new tunnel to connect the North Side pumping station with the proposed lake inlet, were forced to remain Friday night at the Water-works crib where they passed a miserable night, surrounded by ice and with only enough fire to keep them from freezing to death. The men got ready at 4 p. m. and came almost over the tramway leading over water and ice for 1,800 feet. Then it was found that wind, waves and grinding ice had torn away 250 feet of the tramway. John Dinny, boldest than the others, said he would try the ice. He reached the shore, but only after a dozen immersions in the icy water and being painfully cut and bruised by the razored edges of the ice through which he continually fell. The others, who suffered intensely on the ice, were taken off half dead at 7 o'clock this morning.

Adjt.-Gen. Wickham's Order Is Still a Mystery.

COL. COMFORT MAKES A VERY SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT.

The Force That Missouri Can Furnish in Case the Chilian Affair Comes to a Crisis—Capt. Rumbold Gives His Idea of the Adjutant-General's Visit to Washington.

The statement published in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH to the effect that the National Guard is to be recruited to its maximum strength, caused considerable excitement in military circles and no little comment in all quarters. The order, coming from the Adjutant-General at this time, was taken to have some bearing upon the Chilian war rumors and considerable martial ardor has been aroused in consequence. In substance, the Adjutant-General calls upon the commanders of State troops to recruit their commands up to the maximum—infantry not less than sixty nor more than eighty, and batteries not less than sixty nor more than 101. Col. Chas. D. Comfort, commanding the First Regiment and at present acting Brigadier, issued a general order to the brigade on Saturday comformable with the above.

COL. COMFORT RETICENT.

Col. Comfort was seen this morning and asked for an explanation of his order. He said that the order was the best possible explanation; that it had been issued after conference with Adjt.-Gen. Wickham.

"Do you know, Colonel, whether any communication from Washington has been received by the Governor or the Adjutant General, counselling recruiting the National Guard?" was asked.

"Yes" was the Colonel's answer.

"Will you say whether such a communication was received?"

"No."

"Then you will not say anything about it?"

"Nothing, save that I know and am not at liberty to give any information."

The Colonel then stated that the present force of the First Regiment was between 500 and 600, with new men coming in quite fast. He said that the maximum force of the regiment was about a thousand men.

Capt. Frank Rumbold, Commander of Battery A, said: "Our present force is 55, there are 11 names now on our recruiting list and our full complement is 101."

CAPT. RUMBOLD'S EXPLANATION.

Capt. Rumbold deprecated the excitement engendered by the brigade order, holding that it had nothing to do with the present Chilian trouble. He said that the States are required annually to report their efficiency, and that, as the quota of Federal support is founded upon numerical strength, the Missouri military authorities wish to make the best possible showing.

As to the visit of Gen. Wickham to Washington, Capt. Rumbold was of the opinion that it had to do simply with the Missouri war records. He takes with him his chief clerk, Capt. Bentley, but can volunteer no light. Copying documents at a meeting of Adjutant-Generals will take place, but the idea of that meeting is the securing of legislation that shall get an increase of the annual $400,000 appropriation.

In the event of war the National Guard cannot be called outside of the State, says Capt. Rumbold, but can volunteer. He holds that the National Guard is entirely distinct from the old militia, the latter being still in existence and taking in every man between the ages of 18 and 45 years.

COMING TO LIGHT.

Facts to Be Revealed Concerning the Whisky Trust Deal.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18.—It was announced in the local papers yesterday that Philip Shufeidt, who sailed from Liverpool on the Teutonic, Jan. 6, is hastening his return to Chicago for the purpose of instituting suit against the Distillers & Cattle-Feeders Co. to recover a large amount of money, variously estimated at from $150,000 to $500,000, which it is claimed is due him for conducting the negotiations which led to the big Shufeidt distillery passing into the hands of the trust, in which the public is interested, but which have never been known. If Mr. Shufeidt's suit should succeed in making public the inwardness of the deal by which the trust gobbled up its most formidable rival, the price paid, etc., it will prove an interesting bit in the courts. President Greenhut of the Whisky Trust said last night at Peoria:

"I know little about the matter. Shufeidt claims that a large amount of money is still due for making the transfer. I will not say that he was not of our company in that matter, but I know that after the transfer was made he expressed himself as being dissatisfied with his share of the deal and threatened to sue the company."

CIRCUIT JUDGES.

Many Aspirants for the Twentieth District Bench.

FARMINGTON, Jan. 18.—Circuit Judges are to be elected this year and the friends of the various aspirants for judicial honors have been busy for several months arranging the fences. This circuit (the Twentieth) is composed of the counties of Bollinger, Madison, Perry, St. Francois and Ste. Genevieve. A few months ago there were no less than five aspirants for the position, but two of the candidates have withdrawn from the contest.

The present incumbent, James D. Fox of Madison County, is a candidate for re-election. He was first elected to the position in 1886, and re-elected without opposition in 1886. Judge Fox is a good judge of law, possessed of good social qualities and withal one of the shrewdest politicians in all Southeast Missouri. Another aspirant is Edward Robb of Perry County. Mr. Robb was Prosecuting Attorney of his county for one or more terms and served in the Missouri Legislature. A third candidate is F. M. Carter of Farmington. Mr. Carter was Prosecuting Attorney for this county for a number of years, making the most efficient prosecutor that Ste. Francois County has ever known. He also served one term in the General Assembly of Missouri. The fight between these three gentlemen promises to be a pretty one, as each of the candidates has a strong local following. There may be some bitterness engendered ere the contest is decided, but good feeling seems to prevail now.

THEY'RE STAGE-STRUCK.

Runaway Girls Caught and Taken Back Home.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Jessie March and Florence Kaye, the two Washington girls who ran away from home New Year's day and were found in New York by the distracted mother of the former will go home to-morrow afternoon. Both declare, however, that they are determined to go on the stage. She tried to stop the girls when a reporter called to see them to-day, but they rattled on happily, interspersing their talk with the latest stage slang. Miss Jennie said: "Oh, we had a lovely time. Took in all the theaters—Niblo's, Bowery, London, Huber's Eighth Avenue, Jacobs—all of them every night. We're stuck on the theater. We're bound to come back. Mamma has not said we might, but we will come back anyway.'/

"Bet your life," promptly responded the other. "We're going into a variety. A friend of ours is writing up a sketch for us. Just a little skitone turn, you know. Jessie knows a male part and I'm the girl. We'll never put on tights—never."

Miss Florence blushed and Miss March laughed while the dowager frowned frigidly and commanded the young women to stop talking to the reporter.

MARVELOUS SURGERY.

A Man Blind From Birth Given His Eyesight.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Jan. 18.—R. T. Summers was blind, but now can see. His history is an interesting and strange one. For a long time Summers, who is a white man, was a well-known character in Thomasville, having been born so, and there was no difference betwe en day and night to him. Summers was unusually intelligent for one so handicapped, and made a good living by selling songs, mending chairs, etc. About a month ago Summers decided to marry and he and a respectable widow were made one. After the wedding the couple left here, going to Alabama. By a fortunate chance they visited Birmingham. An oculist examined his eyes and offered to cure him. There was an operation, followed by days in a dark room, and then Summers could see as well as any one. The world has a strange appearance to him. Summers' eyes had just been reversed from what they ought to have been. The pupils were turned inward and the backs of the eyes outward. Last week when he returned to Thomasville he was in the midst of friends without knowing them. They did not recognize the man who could see as well as they as Summers, the blind song peddler. A strange feature is that while Summers has recovered his sight he has lost all knowledge of his trade, a chair mender. People will no longer buy his songs. He is really more helpless than before.

COMEDY AND TRAGEDY.

They Are Involved in the Troubles of a Greek Church.

SAN FRACISCO, Cal., Jan. 18.—A curious sequel of the Greek Church quarrel in this city came to light yesterday, revealing a plot on the part of the Slavonian Society to murder one of the men conspicuous in securing the recent removal of Bishop Vladimir as head of the Greek Church on this coast. The fight over Vladimir developed intense bitterness and led to an attempt to burn down the Greek Cathedral and a deadly attack on the Bishop and several others. The leader among ther adicals in the church party who finally triumphed over the Bishop were Dr. Nicholas Russell and Bozo Goptchevitch. Russell has been frequently threatened with death and a few months ago Goptchevitch was attacked by four men and left for dead in the street. He recovered, but could get no clue to his assailants. A few days ago he learned of a new plot against his life. An ex-convict named Charley Thompson was hired to kill him for $1,000, and if he succeeded he was to get another $1,000 for removing Dr. Russell. Thompson weakened on the job and told Goptchevitch. It was arranged that the clothing of the dead man was to be a voucher for paying the money, but when Thompson, who had planned the matter with Goptchevitch, came with the bloody clothes his employers demanded to see the corpse before they handed over the coin. The humorous feature of the case is that the Slavonian Society, to which the men who hired Thompson belong, held a ball Saturday evening, and the profits of the entertainment were to be paid to the assassin yesterday. There is no question but Thompson was hired in good faith to commit the murder, but the premature publicity given to the affair and a demand for the production of the body prevented the clinching the bargain with coin. Goptchevitch went into hiding to bear out a report that he had been killed.

BATTLE WITH A MOOSE.

Two Indian Hunters Killed by the Wounded Animal.

WINNEPEG, MAN., Jan. 17.—A man who has just come here from Rat Portage, Minn., tells of a desperate fight made by a wounded moose with two Indians and the killing of the latter by the animal. The Indians were hunting near the Lake of the Woods and came across a band of moose, consisting of an old bull, and a cow and two calves. The Indians were armed with old guns and knives. One shot at the bull and hit the animal in the shoulder, wounding him in such a manner that he could not run fast. They ran after him, firing again and again, but with no success, until at last the moose turned on them, and as they had followed close they had little time to get out of his way. The moose rushed at the Indians and one of them, as he turned to go away, tripped on a root and fell at the feet of the enraged brute. He at once trampled and cut the man with his hoofs in a terrible manner and did not leave him until life was extinct. Meanwhile the other Indian was doing all in his power to save his companion and was stabbing the moose with his knife, having discarded the gun as being useless, for it might hurt the man who was down.

When the moose had satisfied its rage upon the man that was down, it turned upon the other and set upon him in the same manner, attacked him just as savagely as it had his companion, and soon the second Indian was dead also. They were missed by their companions and a party came up just as the man was dead and the animal fell to the earth exhausted from the many wounds which had been made by the knife of the last victim. The moose was one of the largest ever seen in this part of the country and stood fully ten feet high to the top of its antlers.

Real Estate.

To-day's snowstorm afforded the real estate agents an opportunity to attend to their office business undisturbed by inquiries for property. Occasionally they like such a change. When it comes the time is used to good advantage in cleaning up old matters and laying plans for the future.

Baggott & Haley report the sale of 70x107½ feet of ground on the north side of Olive street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets at $200 a foot from H. W. Elliott to Charles F. Bates. This is considered a very cheap piece of ground. Mr. Baggott says nothing less than $500 a foot would buy one of the corners in that locality.

C. C. Nicholls reports the sale of a ten-room house and 25x109 feet of ground at No. 3524 Olive street for $9,200, from Mary E. Wernier to W. J. Gregory. It is said the premises will rent for $55 a month.

The deed conveying the residence and 103x170 feet of ground at the northeast corner of Grand and Franklin avenues from Calvin B. Richards to Hiram S. Liggett for $35,000, was filed for record to-day. Rutledge & Kilpatrick represented the purchaser, and Charles H. Bailey the grantor in this transaction.

ABOUT TOWN.

MRS. JENNINGS of 2846 Russell avenue sent a large bundle of clothing to the Four Courts last night to be distributed among the worthy poor.

MRS. SCHNEIDER of 12 South Twentieth street sent some money and two large bundles of clothes for the poor and a Mrs. Levy also sent a bundle of clothes for the worthy poor.

ABOUT the first of February Mr. Walter Crane of London will be in this city. There will be an exhibition of his works at the Museum of Fine Arts, and he will give one or two lectures on the art of designing at Memorial Hall.

ALEX DIXON, a colored man, stole a coat from Sallie Green of No. 1215 Morgan street, yesterday, and left it at the lunch stand at South Side Park, where it was recovered. A warrant for Dixon's arrest will be applied for to-morrow.

PETER JENKINS was arrested at the South Side Track yesterday on sispicion of picking the pockets of Ed. Gordon of 3709 South Thirteenth street, who claims to have caught Jenkins with his hand in his overcoat pocket. Jenkins passed the night in the hoidover.

LEONARD and Julia Kreshbalk came to blows at their home, No. 1028 High street, yesterday, and Leonard got the worst of it. When arrested Mrs. Kresback defied the officers, her husband and the world in general. She says he will prosecute and his wife dares him to do it.

JOHN E. GREEN, a drug clerk employed by Judge B. Dolph, was arrested last night, charged with stealing small toilet articles. Green was discharged sometime ago for the same offense, but was reemployed, and it is alleged has rewarded his employers by again stealing from them.

JAMES BONE was arrested on Jefferson and Franklin avenues yesterday afternoon by Detectives King and Gaffney. He was carrying seventeen feet of lead pipe and two brass faucets which he could not account for. The police say he has long had a cinch on lead pipe stealing in this city.

J. E. GROW of 110 East Main street, Staunton, Pa., writes to Chief Harrigan for information about his brother, G. C. Grow, who left his home three years ago and came West. He was a tinner by trade, and when last heard from he was in St. Louis working at his trade. His aged mother is pining to see him and urges the Chief to make an effort to find him.

A NUMBER of charitably disposed persons left various articles of food and clothing yesterday for the destitute at the various police stations. Four pairs of shoes, three bundles of clothing and forty-five loaves of bread were left at the Fourth District Station this morning. Mr. Owen Muller of 1410 South Broadway donated a lot of clothing for the poor of the Second Police District.

LAST night a negro porter, Charles Jackson, employed in the saloon on the Northwest corner of Seventh and Pine, demanded that $3 be advanced on his salary. It was refused and a fight ensued, in which Jackson was badly beaten with a poker by one of the proprietors, named O'Brien. The negro's wounds were dressed at the Dispensary and he was then sent to his home, No. 1510 Chestnut street. No arrests.

PRIVATE WATCHMAN William Schoenbeck attempted to arrest Edward Johnson, a negro, on Twentieth and Poplar streets yesterday morning for exposing his person. The negro resisted arrest and in the scuffle bit off the forefinger of Schoenbeck's right hand and planted his teeth in the officer's forehead. He escaped arrest. He is said to keep a coal yard on Lucas avenue near Thirteenth street.

THE half-burned bales of cotton from the compress fire last Friday were removed to John H. Finnegan's cotton picking establishment on the southwest corner of Main and Rutger streets, yesterday, and at 3 o'clock flames burst from the blackened heaps. The workmen saw the smoke in time to prevent the spread of the flames and very little damage was done. An alarm was turned in from box 168, but the fire was extinguished without the aid of the department.

Carondelet Jottings.

Benjamin Manion has returned from Cape Girardeau.

The South End Building & Loan Association held its regular monthly meeting last night at the office of W. Mott.

Fred Mooney, a laborer, while at work repairing a draw-head on a freight car yesterday afternoon, a coupling pin fell on his head from the car, causing a frightful wound. Dr. Starkloff dressed the injury.

The following persons donated clothes for the benefit of the poor yesterday: Mrs. John Gausman, Mrs. E. V. Swartz, Mrs. Lewis Richardson, Mrs. John Lawler and Alexander Hecker. The clothes are at the police station and will be given to the most worthy of the poor.

H. Hail was severely hurt about the face yesterday afternoon while at work helping to move a large refrigerator on a car at the foot of Stein street and the Iron Mountain Railway. As Hail attempted to step on a plank leading up to the car he slipped and fell cutting his face in a horrible manner. He was removed to Knorris' drug store where Dr. Starkloff dressed the wound.

Maj. Val Schrempp has received a letter from Maxville, Mo., asking him who the four gentlemen were that drove down to Maxville last Wednesday in search of game. It is said that the men entered a farm yard and shot several ducks. They then made a hasty departure for the city. They drove down in a sleigh and were recognized by several persons as hailing from Carondelet. The letter concludes by saying that the would-be hunters and any of the four should they be seen in that locality. Maj. Schrempp says he knows who the four men are, but refuses to give their names.

The Iron Mountain Railway Co. has discontinued a number of their local passenger trains, much to the displeasure of the South End people. Beginning with yesterday the southern Electric Railway Co. lengthened their time of making trips from Sixth and Market streets to the southern terminus of the road. The trip formerly took forty minutes, but owing to a number of persons complaining about the cars running too fast for safety the time was prolonged.

North St. Louis.

The Holy Name Church Sodality, one of the most flourishing in the city, will have an entertainment Jan. 26.

Mrs. Jacob Mange, nee Fannie Marks, 3211 North Ninth street, is entertaining her cousin from Gotham.

To-morrow night the Diamond Cocked Hat Club will entertain a small party of their lady friends in the North St. Louis Turner Hall, Twentieth and Salisbury streets.

The Enterprise Club will have a masque ball next Saturday night at the Social Turner Hall, Thirteenth and Monroe streets.

A special meeting of the Young Men's Sodality of St. Michael's Church has been called for to-night to discuss several important questions. Father Thomas Mullen, the spiritual director, has succeeded in reorganizing the sodality and making it as prosperous as any in the city. He will entertain the members every Monday night with an interesting ten-minute lecture upon some of the timely topics of the day.

Choral Symphony Concert.

To-morrow evening the second Symphony concert of the Choral Society will be given at Music Hall, with the celebrated soprano, Miss Clementine De Vere of New York, as the soloist, assisted by the orchestra. The following is the programme:

Removed — every vestige of Catarrh in the Head, no matter how bad the case, or of how long standing, by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Not only Catarrh itself, but all the troubles that come from it — they're permanently and perfectly and permanently cured by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties.

If you could only be sure of that, it's enough.

The proprietors of Dr. Sage's Remedy try to prove it to you. They are sure enough of it—a record of 25 years, with thousands of the most hopeless cases, has satisfied them—but how can they prove it to you? There's no better way than with money. So they say this, and they mean it: "if we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter what your case is, we'll pay you $500 in cash. There's a chance that you can't be cured, but it's so small that we're willing to take it."

What more can they say or do to convince you?

Isn't that enough?

ON 'CHANGE.

Grain.

Wheat—A strong market during the first half the session, though the opening was a shade lower, but at once quickly recovered and then advanced 1½c. While the early feeling was so firm, trading was rather light. New orders were here and there, and local demand moderate, as the main body of shorts were holding off and the bulls not buying much, but offerings were limited. About 12 o'clock a change to weakness took place and there was a relapse of 1½c from the top, from which there was not over ½c rally, and the close only ½c above Saturday. The strength and advance on this side were largely owing to the firmer cables received this morning. London was 6d lower for Mark Lane and cargoes, but Liverpool to-14 higher, and all the private cables added a better demand and feeling, which was construed as meaning that foreigners were at once responding to Saturday's advance in American markets. The light receipts and out of local arrivals two-thirds went through, the prospect for a large decrease in the visible, and predictions of far the severest cold wave of the season, though "the beautiful" covered the winter wheat plant pretty generally, all tended to help out the bull turn. Seaboard clearances for Saturday were the large 62,000 pkgs flour and 705,000 bu wheat from five ports, equivalent to nearly 1,000,000 bu. The decrease in the visible was 1,514,000 bu and up to outside estimates, but after the figures were posted the market was weakened instead of advancing any more. Latest cables were better than generally expected. Liverpool showing advances of ¼@⅝d, London ⅛@¼d, 3d higher, Paris unchanged to 1c higher, Berlin up ½@¾c and Antwerp ½@2½c up, which checked the passing weakness, but it ceased off again on the large Indian shipments. The close saw nearly all the advance lost.

FUTURES—Jan. sold at 88½c and at close 88⅝c bid, March sold at 91c and at close 90¾c bid. July sold at 87⅜c to 88c and 87½c bid at close. May opened at 91½@¾c and sold to 92⅜c by 91⅝c to 91⅝c to 92⅜c to 92⅞c to 92½c to 92⅝c to 92⅜@⅝c to 92¼c to 92⅝c and at close 92⅜c bid.

SPOT GRADES—Higher and firm. Offerings were small, but the demand lacked urgency and was rather light, so that most sales were to carriers. After call, with futures lower, No. 2 red was not salable at 89c, which it brought on Call, and that 1½c above Saturday.

No. 3 red at 85@85½c in C., 86c E. side and 85½c bid for St. L., 85½c for Cdlt. No. 4 not offered and 80c bid regular, 81c for E. side. Rejected sold at 70c and that bid for St. L. and E. side, 72c for Cdlt. No. 2 hard winter sold at 80c and No. 2 spring and No. 2 hard spring at 81½c. No. 2 hard winter not offered, 80½c bid regular, 81c for E. side and St. L.

SALES No. 2 red—2 cars regular at 89c. No. 3 red—2 cars in C. at 85c, 5 cars regular and 1 in C. at 85½c, 2 E. side at 86c. Rejected winter—2 cars in C. and F. at 70c. No. 3 hard winter—1 car regular at 80c. No. 2 spring—5 cars in C. at 81½c. No. 2 hard spring—1 car regular at 81½c.

SAMPLES—Receipts, 56 cars. The offerings were very light and very little of the better grades. Market firmer and about ½c to 1c higher early, but weaker late in sympathy with the decline in futures. The sales consisted principally of hard wheat, which was about ½c to ¾c higher. Sales: Special bin—2,500 bu No. 2 at 75½c, 18 cars do at 80¼c, 2 No. 4 winter at 82½c, 1 do at 83c, 1 No. 3 red at 87½c. Track this side—1 car at 82c. Track East side—1 car No 3 red at 87½c. Sacks—70 at 83c and 43 at 86c.

Corn—Stronger, along with wheat and on prospects of a snow blockade, but speculation still flat and little interest taken in either side. Receipts were the largest so far this side, but over 60 cars short was for through shipment. Exports from Atlantic ports were 796,000 bu, but Liverpool was weak and 1½d lower early in the day, first and ⅛d lower in the second cable. The visible decreased 186,000 bu, where it increased 54,000 bu same week year ago. The late weakness did not had no particular influence and at close there were buyers of Jan. ½c above Saturday and Feb. was ¼@⅜c and May ⅛c higher.

FUTURES—Feb. sold at 36⅝c to 37¼c, closing at 37c. May fluctuated between 38¼c and 39c, and closed at 38⅝@38¾c asked. Jan. 37⅜c bid and no sellers below 38c. May—No. 2 white offered at 41c, bid 40½c.

SPOT GRADES—Higher. There was a fair demand and not much offering outside No. 2 red, the supply of which was liberal. Most of the buying was for local account. No. 2 regular sold ½c higher at 37¼c and 37⅝c paid for M. and E. side, 37¾c for U. and Cdlt and bid for St. L. No. 3 also ½c higher at 36½c and that bid for M., St. L. and E. side, 36⅞c for U. No. 2 white ½c better at 39c and for No. 3 white in M., 37½c bid.

Sales: No. 2—7 cars regular at 37¼c, 2 in M and 7 E. side at 37½c, 1 in U and 20 in Cdlt at 37¾c. No. 3—1 car in U at 36¾c. No. 2 white—3 cars in at 39c.

GLASGOW INQUEST.

The Young Man Killed Himself While Temporarily Insane.

The inquest over the remains of J. Clark Glasgow was held yesterday at the family residence, No. 2741 Locust street. The body lay on a wooden slab near to the bed where it was found within a moment after the shot was heard by the people in the house.

The room was prettily and tastefully ornamented, showing everywhere loving remembrances from members of the family.

His brother, E. J. Glasgow, after giving the name, age and family history said: "All his family relations were of the most pleasant kind and only a few days ago he was talking of going into a new business, and two days ago he played cards with his sisters and myself, showing himself very cheerful all the time. He used absinthe for headache, from which he suffered, and always had a bottle of it with him. He may have taken too much of it."

Dr. Frank A. Glasgow testified as to young Glasgow's use of absinthe for headaches.

Andrew T. Samuels, the old family colored servant, testified that a few minutes before the terrible occurrence, "Mr. Clark" had behaved in a most unusual manner, losing his temper and swearing at the servants. He went up to his room assisting himself with the balustrade; when the shot was heard, the old negro went to the room and found him lying on the bed with the pistol on his breast and a lighted cigarette still between his lips.

The Coroner at the conclusion of the testimony rendered the following verdict:

"Death from a gun-shot wound of the head, said shot being fired from a 38-caliber revolver by deceased himself while laboring under temporary insanity from the effects of the excessive use of absinthe, which he took to relieve headache."

The father remained away from the inquest and could see no one.

The funeral took place to-day at 11 o'clock to Bellefontaine.

The Cherokee Strip.

Two delegates of the Cherokee Nation, E. C. Boudinot and T. M. Buffington, registered at the Southern last night. They are on their way to Washington to urge Congress to ratify the treaty by which they agree to sell the Cherokee Strip. They are to receive $8,595,000 for the Strip, which contains 6,022,754 acres. They also wish about 6,000 squatters removed from their reservation, as agreed to in the treaty. Mr. Boudinot says that the Nation is entitled to $8,000,000 for lands that have been taken and never paid for.

Assaulted and Robbed.

A tough-looking man was arrested last night by Officer McClelland and locked up in the Four Courts, charged with highway robbery. It is alleged that the prisoner, whose name is Tom Long, assaulted Thomas Turney with a piece of rubber hose while he was passing the corner of Seventh and Market about 10:30 o'clock last night. Turney claims that he was knocked down and relieved of $15. Officer McClelland, hearing his cries for help, arrived on the scene just as Long was running away. After a chase of several blocks, Long was captured. When searched a piece of hose and a number of keys were found on his person, but none of the money recovered.

An independent financial position is only the work of a few years. Any young man with proper economy can easily attain it. Save the dollars and the hundreds will come at your bidding. Open an account with the Chemical National Bank. A liberal interest paid on time deposits and amounts of $1 and over received.

Horribly Beaten.

Late Saturday night John Norriss walked into the Dispensary drunk and bleeding. He was inclined to be obstreperous and the Four Courts patrol wagon was called. Two officers were obliged to hold him while his wounds were being dressed and he was then locked up. Yesterday he was in a terrible condition. He was totally blind and his face was frightfully swollen. He claims to have been assaulted by one John Weber, who was arrested and held to await the result of Norriss' injuries.

Stabbed by a Jealous Lover.

Katie Eckhart was stabbed three times last night with a small pen-knife by her lover, Frank Hauck, a teamster 22 years old, at her home, No. 1514 South Seventh street. Hauck is very jealous of the girl, and last night charged her with receiving the attentions of other men. She denied the charge, and Hauck becoming enraged, stabbed her in the neck and shoulder. A charge of assault to kill was preferred against him and he was soon under arrest.

Terms of the California Club's Offer to the Big Ones.

THEY WILL BE GIVEN EITHER A PURSE OR THE GATE RECEIPTS.

Probability That Fred Pfeffer Will Play With Louisville—A War of Extermination Inaugurated on Guttenburg—The Six Day Bicycle Race Opens in Chicago This Afternoon—Sporting News.

"There is one thing I would like to set right before the public," said a director of the California Club recently according to a San Francisco exchange, "and that is the recent resolution passed by us about a match or several matches between the prominent heavyweight boxers. Our offer was a guaranty of $7,500 to Sullivan, Slavin, Jackson, Corbett, Choynski and McAuliffe for a match between any two of them, to be followed by succeeding matches, to take place every month thereafter until the question of championship had been settled.

"The general impression is that we wanted to arrange a tournament. On the contrary, our proposition is this: If any two of the men mentioned will agree to fight we will guarantee them $7,500 for a purse, or if this is not satisfactory to them we will let them take the entire receipts of the club for the month in which they fight, less the club's running expenses, which will not succeed $1,000. We will let them fix the dues within any reasonable amount and hire a larger hall if they desire. This offer will stand good month after month, so long as these men want to fight each other.

"The club will not gain anything by these contests further than the sport. The boxers are given everything. Say, for instance, Corbett and Choynski should agree to fight. If they did not want the $7,500 they could accept our other proposition. They could fix the dues at $7.50 and have the contest take place somewhere like the Pacific club's gymnasium. Corbett and Choynski could easily draw 2,000 at $7.50 a head, which, less our $1,000 expenses, would give them $14,000 to fight for, a better chance than they could get elsewhere. The contest, of course, would be under the club's auspices, and we would be responsible for square sport and see that the battle was fought on its merits.

"If Sullivan and Slavin would accept the same offer they could easily draw a 2,000 audience at $10 a head. We made this offer simply to coax some of these big fellows into a 24-foot ring."

The directors of the California club have not entirely given up their search for new quarters. Negotiations have been going on between the directors and the owner of the Panorama building, corner Mason and Eddy streets, which would make a splendid exhibition hall, but the owner wants too much rent.

The directors of the Pacific club have also had the same plan under consideration, as it was believed that the present quarters would have to be vacated before the political campaign opens. The club, however, has arranged to get one night during the campaign for a contest.

FIGHT BOTH IN ONE RING.

Jimmy Kennard, the "St. Paul Kid," is anxious to fight Billy Plimmer or Tommy Kelly, "the Harlem Spider." When the proposed contest between Kelly and Plimmer was declared off, some time ago, Kennard stepped in and wanted to take Kelly's place. For some reason the affair was not arranged, and Kennard encountered "Kid" Hogan. Now Kennard comes out in a defy, in which he announces that he is the 110-pound champion of America, and stands ready to defend the title at all times, and says he will fight both Billy Plimmer and Kelly in one ring for $2,500 a side in each contest, he to choose either one first, then take a half an hour rest and go in and knock the other out. Kelly has been recognized as the champion 110-pound man of America until he "crawfished" in the proposed contest with Plimmer, which was all but arranged when Kelly declined to toe the mark, claiming that he was sick and that under the articles of agreement he was not given sufficient time to get into condition.

PLIMMER SANGUINARY.

Billy Plimmer, who forced a draw with "Kid" Hogan, the ex-champion amateur feather-weight of America, last week in Brooklyn, has come out in a declaration in which he says that he should have been awarded the contest, as it is clear that he had far the better of the affair. He wants to have another go at Hogan in a ten-round contest and stands ready to sign articles to fight immediately. He also announced that he stands ready to meet any 110-pound man in America for either $2,500 or $5,000 a side. He would prefer to encounter Tommy Kelly, the "Harlem Spider," who failed to carry out their previous match.

VAN HEEST AND DIXON.

It is doubtful whether Johnny Van Hest and George Dixon will ever come together. George Clark is willing to back Van Haest against the colored wonder for $2,500 and weigh in at 117 pounds six hours before entering the ring or 118 pounds weigh-in at the ring side. The Dixon party want to make the match $5,000 a side, a $5,000 purse and the men to weigh 117 pounds before stepping into the ring. Van Heest's admirers think that his propositions are fair and $2,500 is large enough for most of the feather-weight class to fight for. Dixon's supporters, however, are not to blame for holding out for a large stake, but as Dixon has never done battle for as much as Clark is willing to put up they ought to make some concession. One thing is certain, if Tom O'Rourke, who is managing Dixon, does not come to Clark's terms pretty soon the latter will look around for other and easier game for his man.

WEIR GETS A MATCH.

Ike Weir, the "Belfast Spider," has at last got a match, and his opponent is to be Frank Steele. The latter has been anxious for some time to meet the "Spider," and although the latter was always willing to make a match, they could not get a purse from any club. The New Bedford Athletic Club, however, made them an offer which they have decided to accept, and they have signed articles. The conditions are that the contest shall take place Thursday, Feb. 18, and both to weigh not over 123 pounds at 5 o'clock on the day set for the match. James Moore was selected as referee.

The "Spider" felt happy when he saw Steele affix his name to the articles, and he assured the directors that he intended to "get right" for this contest, and show the people that he is still in the championship class. This contest will undoubtedly be a good one, and the club is going to make arrangements so that the Boston sporting men can witness the match and return the same night. Steele has improved wonderfully since his last match, and, judging from the showing each man made against Johnny Griffin, it will be a close and exciting go.

"GOT IT IN THE NECK."

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The bantamweights Daly and McCarthy met in a finish fight early Sunday morning at Bath Beach for a $100 purse. McCarthy won in the third round, knocking Daly out by a swinging blow on the neck.

HALL AND CHOYNSKI.

Parson Davies recently wrote to the Pacific Club of San Francisco that Hall would not accept a match at present, as he was making good wages showing in the East. Now Hall appears very anxious to fight, and at catch weight, too. There is therefore no reason, if he really wants to fight, why he should not accept a match with Choynski. Outside of middleweights, Choynski is the nearest to Hall's weight, and the only man anxious to fight. Hall is taller than Choynski, and if he is as clever as he represents he ought to make a first-class fight with the San Franciscan.

JACKSON AND SLAVIN.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18.—Peter Jackson, accompanied by "Parson" Davies, left for New York Saturday. During the week Jackson may stop in Brooklyn with Con Riordan. After that an athletic show will be given in Boston, and later the dusky Australian will meet all comers in Philadelphia. In March Jackson will sail for England.

Slavin and Mitchell closed their Chicago engagement Saturday night. Yesterday they left for Detroit, where they will spar until Saturday. On Jan. 24 they will open with Billy Thompson's Congress of Novelties in St. Louis. After that they will visit Cincinnati, Louisville, Philadelphia, New York and Boston and the ten weeks' trip will close in Canada, from whence the pugilists will sail for England. Slavin will go into training in April for his fight with Jackson, which takes place in London, May 30. Fred Gallagher will accompany the fighters as their manager.

CORBETT SICK.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—An intimate friend of Jim Corbett in Philadelphia writes to a New York sporting man that Jim Corbett is a sick man. "He contracted malaria some months ago," says the writer, "and he appears to be worse now than he was when he first came East. It is doubtful if he will engage in any contests this year."

PUGILISTIC POINTERS.

Eddie Avery has issued a challenge declaring his willingness to meet any 105-pound man in America, to a finish or a limited number of rounds for $500 a side. Avery states that he would prefer to encounter Murphy or Kennedy.

Tommy Warren and George Seddons will meet in the rooms of the Metropolitan Athletic Club of New Orleans next Thursday night, for a $1,500 purse, $300 of which will go to the loser. The winner of the encounter will meet the winner of the Callaghan-McCarthy mill.

Because Phil Dwyer, the horseman, advanced $4,000 to Corbett pugilists from everywhere are asking him to act as backer. Dwyer has been annoyed so much by fighters that he has publicly announced that he will not join the pugilistic ranks as financial man for anybody under any circumstances.

Paddy McCarthy of New York wants to fight George Reynolds of the same point to a finish for $500 a side at 133 pounds. He has deposited $50 as a forfeit to bind the match. If the above is not agreeable to Reynolds, McCarthy announces that he will box him ten rounds, the winner to take 75 and the loser 25 per cent of the gate receipts.

BASE BALL.

One telegram states that Fred Pfeffer has signed to captain and play second base for Louisville at a salary of $6,000 a year, while another claims that he has gone there to open a saloon. The former is more likely to be true. It has been stated in telegrams sent from St. Louis to outside newspapers that President Von der Ahe claimed to have signed Pfeffer. This statement is not correct. While the St. Louis President wanted Pfeffer, he has never claimed to have signed him, but, on the other hand, has always denied having secured him. He says President Hart of Chicago offered to trade him Pfeffer for Stricker, but afterwards refused to make the deal, demanding Glasscock in exchange for the second baseman. This trade the St. Louis magnate refused to make. Jack Crooks has now been signed to cover second base for the Browns and an effort will be made to exchange Stricker for a pitcher, as St. Louis is badly in need of twirlers.

YALE WITHDRAWS.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 18.—The triumvirate which controls Yale base ball have returned home, and the base ball conference which was to have been held in New York with Harvard and Princeton was wanting of their presence. Their indifference excited considerable curiosity in the college, and President Franklin and Capts. Murphy and McClung were widely sought after. Capt. Murphy was seen last night and said in explanation of Yale's refusal to confer:

"It is a most surprising development and shows an evident desire to shut Yale out as far as possible."

NO TRADE MADE.

Chicago will not release out-fielder Wilmot unless it gets something good in return. For a week Presidents Hart and Temple of the Chicagos and Pittsburgs corresponded on the matter. The latter told Hart that if he was going to release Wilmot, Pittsburg could find a place for that player. Hart replied by saying that it had never occurred to the Chicagos to release Wilmot, but that as their infield was weak, they would be willing to exchange him for Short Stop Shugart of the Pittsburgs. The reply struck President Temple as being so amusing that he answered it by proposing to exchange Shugart for Anson and Pitcher Hutchinson. He added that while the Pittsburgs would have no other use for Anson than as a field captain, Beckley, a better man, being on first base, they would take Hutchinson and Anson for Shugart.

George Williams, the ex-Chicago ball magnate, is still in Louisville. It is reported he will have an interview with President Stucky of the Louisville Club to-day. The fact that the "Colonels" are in a straightened financial condition has resulted in several offers being made for the club and franchise by Indianapolis, Buffalo, Milwaukee and Columbus. The latter, so it is reported, have offered $10,000.

The funeral of Frank, better known as "Silver" Flint, the famous old base ball catcher, took place yesterday from the home of his brother on Dayton street. Joe Quest and George Wells accompanied the remains down from Chicago. Among the noted ball players at the funeral were Patsy Tebeau, Billy Joyce, Joe Quinn, Yank Robinson, Jim Davis, Geo. McGinnis, George Baker and Messrs. Von der Ahe, George Munson and other personal friends of the old back-stop.

THE WHEEL.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18.—Famous professional wheelmen will try to break the world's record, recently made at Boston, at Battery D this week. The race, which will be a six-day, forty-eight-hour, eight-hours-per-day affair, will open at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Among the riders who will compete are Howell, Wood, Ashinger, Prince, O'Flanagan and Stage. Howell, Wood and Lamb are representatives of England, the former being the acknowledged champion short-distance rider of the world, while Prince and Ashinger are Americans. Stage is an Aberdeen Scotchman, and O'Flannagan hails from the Emerald Isle. Ashinger, the American forty-eight-hour champion, prefers to run the English riders off their feet, as he did in Boston. Prof. Chas. Ley of Chicago will give trick performances every afternoon, and the Second Regiment Band will furnish the music.

The track is fast and the corners are banked as steep as a housetop, so that the riders will be able to go at the rate of twenty miles an hour. The hall is decorated with the flags of all nations.

Another noted rider sent his entry in from New York, Saturday, Alf Robb, who has just arrived from England, and will reach Chicago this morning. He is a fast rider, as well as a man of endurance, and made the sensational ride of 362 miles without a dismount in the race at Madison Square Garden, last October. The starters will be Howell Wood; Lamb and Robb, England; Stage, Scotland; O'Flanagan, Ireland; Schock and Ashinger, America.

BILLIARDS.

Next Friday night those two bright, particular stars of the billiard world, Jacob Schaefer and George Slosson, will meet once more on the green cloth. Their last match, which was won by Slosson so easily, was simply for a stake and the net receipts, but this will not only be for the stakes and net receipts but for the championship and a handsome cup valued at $1,000.

Both men have been practicing hard and both have been making some remarkably big averages. While the average a man may make in practice does not settle by any means the victor, it shows in a measure what sort of form he is in. So far Slosson is a little ahead but he has been practicing longer, which may account for the difference. Slosson's highest average has been 40, while Schaefer's best is 27.

Slosson looks in splendid health, and seems confident of winning. Schaefer looks far from a well man, but says he will be all right on the night of the contest and that he generally wins championship contests. It is a rather strange fact that Schaefer has won a majority of the championship contests, while Slosson has had by far the best of the match games. There has been little or no betting yet. The managers of the affair say that the seats at the Lyceum Opera-house are selling well.

Dick Roche of St. Louis stated in New York the other night that he would bet $5,000 against $4,000 that Schaefer could defeat Slosson in a 8,000-point game at any kind of billiards. Slosson in reply said that Roche was simply bluffing and dare not hazard any money on the outcome of the match of Jan. 22 next.

ATHLETICS.

Representatives of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Brown, Amherst and Columbia met at New Haven, Conn., recently to perfect the organization of the University Athletic Club. The object of the club is to furnish the athletic facilities for amateurs. The initiation fee was fixed at $50, and the annual dues $50 for residents and $25 for non-residents.

The membership is to be limited to 1,000, and is only open to graduates of colleges where at least a three years' course is required. Graduates of West Point and the naval academy are eligible to membership.

THE TURF.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The war upon Guttenburg race track is to be carried on vigorously by the Law and Order League of Hudson county. Counsel has been engaged and ample funds raised to carry on the long and bitter fight that all feel must now come.

EAST ST. LOUIS OPENING POSTPONED.

The East St. Louis Jockey Club management announced this morning that the heavy fall of snow which set in last night would prevent them from getting the track in the condition they wanted it by next Saturday, the day set for the opening, and for that reason they would postpone the opening day one week, beginning racing on Saturday, Jan. 30.

TRACK TALK.

The combined winnings of all the horses, regardless of age, that won $5,000 and over on the American turf last year foot up the enormous total of $2,028,145. The total value in stakes won in England last year, exclusive of matches and private sweepstakes, was £488,410, or about $2,192,000. In Ireland the stakes amounted to nearly $77,000 and in Scotland $51,000, which makes a total amount of $2,320,000 for the United Kingdom.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Missouri Gymnasium and Sportsmen Park Athletic Club foot-ball teams met at Sportsmen's Park yesterday afternoon. The contest resulted in a draw.

The Baptiste-Kasten wrestling contest will take place at Entertainment Hall to-night. The articles of agreement call for a catch-as-catch-can contest. Kasten will weigh 149 pounds, while Baptiste will go him six pounds better.

Raid on a Craps Game.

Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock Officers Langan and Lawton raided a big crap game in Henry Bridgewater's resort on Morgan street. Just as the officers entered the lights were turned out, and in the confusion that followed the negroes escaped through doors and windows, demolishing every piece of furniture in the place in their efforts to escape. It is thought that several players were severely injured.

TO PREVENT PNEUMONIA,
USE WILBOR'S
PURE COD LIVER OIL
AND PHOSPHATES.
It Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Debility, Wasting Diseases, and all Lung Complaints and Humors.
Almost as palatable as cream. It can be taken with pleasure by delicate persons and children, who, after using it, are very fond of it. It assimilates with the food, increases the flesh and appetite, builds up the nervous system, restores energy to mind and body, creates new, rich and pure blood—in fact, rejuvenates the whole system.
FLESH, BLOOD, NERVE, BRAIN.
Be sure, as you value your health, and get the genuine. Manufactured only by Dr. A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston, Mass. Sold by all druggists.

DRUNKENNESS
Or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.
It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never Fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist.
BEWARE OF FRAUDS AND IMITATIONS.—Let it be clearly understood that Golden Specific is the only scientific medicine for the sure cure of Drunkenness or Inebriate in any stage.
Any preparation claiming to accomplish this same result is spurious and worthless, and those who buy it simply throw away their money, as they will in the end discover.
GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., Prop'rs, CINCINNATI, O.
